Eden Urges Allies Strive To Speed German Accord

Proposal Calls For Agreement Within 50 Days

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden proposed tonight the Western Allies speed up their timetable to get an agreement within 50 days on freeing and rearming West Germany.

Eden made his proposal on the eve of the fateful nine-power conference opening here tomorrow to bring West Germany into the free world's defense setup.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, following talks with Eden last night and with French Premier Pierre Mendes-France this afternoon, was reported insisting on "substantial progress in 1954."

French Inject New Issue

But at the last minute, the French injected a new and disturbing element by spreading word they wanted a Saar settlement under Brussels Pact auspices as a condition for their acceptance of West German rearmament.

Eden's new plan proposed postponing the NATO Council of Foreign Ministers, set for around Oct. 15, to give the Allies time to grant West Germany its sovereignty so it could become a partner in the Atlantic Alliance.

Diplomatic officials said Eden urged:

1. That the conference opening tomorrow conduct parallel talks. Foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany should arrange for the restoration of German sovereignty. The full nine-power conference would concentrate on German rearmament.

Second 9-Power Conference

2. Experts would be instructed to work out details of the general agreements reached for the consideration of a second nine-power conference to be held within one month, presumably in London.

3. If the ministers agree on the details at their second meeting, they would jointly report at a special meeting of the NATO Council to be held not later than mid-November.

4. The NATO Council then would formally admit Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's West German Federal Republic as the 15th member of the intercontinental military alliance.

The agreement then would have to go through national parliaments for ratification.

Typhoon Leaves Bodies, Debris On Jap Beaches

HAKODATE, Japan, Tuesday, Sept. 28 (AP)—Bodies and debris strewed the beaches here today after a savage typhoon sank a huge ferry and killed possibly 1,600 persons, most of them in Northern Japan.

Seventeen Americans—soldiers, their dependents and civilians—were among the dead. Nearly 50 other Americans were listed as missing by the U. S. Army and Japan National Railway.

The Americans died in Japan's worst maritime disaster Sunday when the typhoon, which had been heading out across the Sea of Japan, turned and struck Northern Japan with winds of 100 m.p.h.

163 Of 1,200 Aboard Survive

The Toya Maru with an estimated 1,200 persons aboard had anchored off Hakodate harbor when the rush of wind and water hit. It capsized. Only 163 persons were known to have survived.

Four other ferries from Hakodate were also caught and sank. The tides still were washing in bodies. Rescue workers searched the beaches and debris in the hope of finding more alive.

The Marine Safety Board said that throughout the storm area, 12 steamships, 25 motor schooners and 312 other vessels sank. It listed 1,552 persons dead or missing from sea disasters alone.

The board's figures cover an area from Southern Japan, where the typhoon first struck, to North-Japan. It said never before in history had a typhoon wrought such damage in the seas around Japan.

Survivor Search Hampered

Two U. S. Navy ships and planes from four U. S. bases in Japan launched a survivor search but stiff winds and high waves kept rescue work at a minimum.

The typhoon's winds whipped up a great fire that within minutes destroyed 3,000 to 4,300 house at Iwanai, a city of 23,000 population 90 miles north of Hakodate. Police said 32 were dead there and 56 missing.

Police and coast guard estimated 600 bodies had washed ashore by Monday night. About 500 bodies were believed caught in the hull of the Toya Maru, which sank only 150 yards from the shore.

U. S. And Canada Plan Far North Radar Network

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—The United States and Canada today announced plans to build a fence of radar stations across the top of the continent as far north as practicable in the Arctic.

This new, northernmost network will be designed to give as early warning as possible of the approach of any enemy planes across the plar icecap and thus to help intercept a possible hydrogen or atomic bomb attack on America's big cities.

It will be the third radar chain stretched across Canada.

"Pinetree" Chain

The "Pinetree" chain, started four years ago, extends across the populated southern part of the dominion, generally along the 54th parallel. This was a joint Canadian-U. S. project. Last spring, Canada undertook to finance, construct and operate the "Mid-Canada line" of radar stations across the broad center of the country.

Today's announcement said Canada and the United States had agreed in principle that "there is a need for the establishment of a distant early warning line across the far northern part of North America."

Planning Under Way

Detailed planning has been ordered started at once, the announcement said, and what part each country will have in constructing and manning the new radar stations will be worked out afterward.

"The establishment of these North American defense installations is a costly and difficult task, which is being undertaken because our security requires it, and is being accomplished successfully because of the readiness of Canadians and Americans to work together in a common cause," the announcement said.

Dulles Steps Into Trieste Dispute

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles personally intervened today in the dispute between Italy and Yugoslavia over Trieste and prospects brightened for a settlement within a matter of days.

Dulles called on Italian Foreign Minister Gaetano Martino and threw his weight behind the American-British drive to end the feud.

A responsible diplomat said later the situation now looks "very encouraging." Another top official said there was chance of agreement within three or four days.

The free territory at the head of the Adriatic where Italy and Yugoslavia meet apparently is to be divided roughly along the present zones of occupation. Zone A, held by a British-American garrison, will go to Italy. Yugoslav-occupied Zone B will stay under Marshal Tito's government.

Gen. Taylor, Chiang Confer On Formosa

TAIPEH, Formosa, Tuesday, Sept. 28 (AP)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor flew here yesterday from the 8th Army command in Korea for high level talks on the 25th straight day of Nationalist attacks on the Red China coast.

Taylor met with Chiang Kai-shek and it was presumed they discussed the warfare around Quemoy, Nationalist island outpost just off the Red mainland 120 miles across Formosa straight from Formosa.

Rivera Is Red—Officially

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 27 (AP)—It's official again: Painter Diego Rivera is a Communist.

The leftist Mexican muralist, thrown out of the party a quarter century ago for criticizing Marxism after a long visit to Soviet Russia, was readmitted at a closed weekend meeting of the Communist national convention.

Truck Fleet Arsonist Fails; "Act Of God," Owner Says

SECRETARY, Md., Sept. 27 (AP)—Police said firebugs attempted yesterday to burn a fleet of 10 trailer trucks, gassed and loaded with canned goods, at the Todd Transportation Co. here.

Harry H. Todd, owner of the company said "an act of God" prevented the entire fleet from going up in flames.

The trucks were valued at $150,000 and the canned goods at $20,000.

Sheriff Waldo H. Robinson of Dorchester County and State Police found a fuse, made from a piece of twisted shirt, trailing to the ground from the gas tank of the first truck in line. Connecting it with the other trucks was a trail of gasoline poured on the ground. In the third truck in line was a blanket saturated with gasoline.

The attempted arson was discovered about 12:05 a.m. within 50 feet of the Secretary firehouse. The cab of one of the big trucks, gassed and ready to depart on hauls throughout the eastern seaboard, was destroyed. Firemen put out blazes in two other vehicles.

Thomas Wanex, 29, who lives above the firehouse, said he saw three strange men drive up in a passenger car and approach the trucks. A few minutes later, he said, he heard the door on one of the trucks slam, saw the men running and observed smoke. He rushed downstairs and pulled the fire siren.

It was then that the "act of God" happened, Todd said.

The second truck in the line started under its own power when the ignition wires burned through.

As spectators watched in astonishment, the flaming truck backed between two adjoining trucks and continued until it reached a position about 40 feet away where it stopped, its cab burning.

Had it remained in line the fire probably would have spread quickly along the trail of gasoline to all the trucks.

Dean Says H-Bomb Book Major Libel

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—A new book on the hydrogen bomb today was called a "major libel" on the atomic research center at Los Alamos, N. M., by Gordon Dean, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Dean said the book is "so loaded with false statements, it's terrible, particularly in reference to Los Alamos."

His comment came after James R. Shepley, co-author of the book "The Hydrogen Bomb," said on a television program yesterday Dean tried to stop publication of the book, although he had not read it.

"That's not true," Dean said. "I had read it." He added he had urged AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss to try to see that either the book was not published, or that it was corrected to adhere to facts.

Poll Reveals Senate Split Over Report

Survey Indicates Rough And Tumble Floor Fight Looms

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Wide and sharp splits developed among Senate members tonight over a special committee report recommending that Sen. McCarthy be censured for his conduct.

The range of reaction foreshadowed a rough and tumble floor scrap when the Senate reconvenes Nov. 8 to take up the issue.

An Associated Press survey of senators who could be reached promptly in various parts of the country showed this division:

Senators apparently inclined to approve censure, although not committed—11.

29-Senators Noncommittal

Senators praising the committee membership or its work, without indicating how they will vote—6.

Senators who were noncommittal—29.

Total Senate membership is 96.

Sample comments:

Sen. Welker (R-Idaho) said he disagreed "unhesitatingly" with the committee's recommendation and declared he would vote "emphatically no" on censuring McCarthy.

Sen. Lehman (D-Lib)NY): "It is now clear that Sen. McCarthy should not only be censured but should be removed immediately from his chairmanship of senatorial committees."

Most Reserve Judgment

Sen. Carlson (R-Kan), a member of the special committee on censure, served notice that he would fight for adoption of its report, and Sen. Robertson (D-Va) said: "My present feeling is that I shall vote to accept its report."

But most senators reserved judgment on the committee's recommendations. Some indicated they wanted to give McCarthy a chance to defend himself on the Senate floor before deciding how to vote; others declined to comment until they can study the 40,000 word report.

From President Eisenhower's headquarters in Denver, Murray Snyder, assistant press secretary, said: "That's strictly Senate business. The White House will have no comment."

Navy Chief Says Russia Striving For Top Place

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 27 (AP)—Adm. Robert B. Carney said tonight that if Soviet Russia continues to increase its naval strength at the present rate the United States must either accelerate its own program or risk falling behind.

The chief of naval operations added that the bulk of the swiftly expanding Red Fleet is of ultra-modern design while the majority of American warships are of World War II vintage.

Soviet Navy Ranks No. 2

In an address prepared for delivery to a joint meeting of the Navy League and the Minneapolis Foreign Policy Assn., Carney said:

"The rise of the Soviet Navy makes it crystal clear that the Soviet government is striving for a preeminent position in the maritime world. Already they have achieved second-ranking naval position in the world quantitatively; and their building and expansion programs, both in noncombatant and merchant tonnage, can only lead one to believe that they are not content to remain a second-ranking sea power."

Deficiencies In U. S. Fleet

The admiral said there are some deficiencies in the U.S. Fleet that the modernization program cannot correct.

"Within the next five years or so, the seagoing vigor of the great majority of our smaller type anti-submarine and escort vessel will have waned," he said. "Already many of them are kept operating only by intense maintenance and repair and their equipment is obsolete."

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—Austria today renewed her eight year fight for membership in the United Nations. She first applied for membership in 1947 and has since been vetoed twice by Soviet Russia.

Extradition Waived By Roberts, Accused Of Slaying Daughter

TOWSON, Md., Sept. 27 (AP)—James T. Roberts, 43-year-old lawyer, waived extradition today and returned to Miami, Fla., where he faces an indictment charging him with killing his 7-year-old daughter, Judith Ann, last July 7.

Roberts, handcuffed, left here by car with two Florida detectives shortly after he appeared before Circuit Judge J. Howard Murray.

After reading the indictment which charged him and a "John Doe and-or Mary Roe" with "striking and strangling" the child and causing her death, the burly Roberts sighed the extradition waiver with the comment:

"If I had known this I would have gone down long ago to clear myself."

Motive Not Announced

Police have not announced a motive for the slaying of Judith Ann whose battered body was found in a thicket on Biscayne Bay a few hours after she had been stolen from the Miami home of her well-to-do grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rosenberg.

There were signs of a sexual attack, but medical authorities testified at an inquest that these injuries could have been inflicted to make it appear Judith Ann had been criminally attacked.

"It had to be planned as a harmless kidnaping," said the slain girl's grandfather in Miami today. "It had to be that way."

Motive Speculated

Calm at the news of the arrest of their son-in-law, the Rosenbergs speculated about a motive. Perhaps it was an effort to extort money from him, he said.

"They couldn't have gotten a lot out of me. I don't have much money any more."

Mrs. Rosenberg volunteered that at the very most she and the grandfather might have raised $15,000 as ransom.

Builder Says He Made Loan To Rep. Powell

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-NY) was described today in testimony before the Senate Banking Committee, as recipient of a $3,000 loan, still not repaid, from the builder of an interracial cooperative apartment project in Queens.

The builder, David Kent, told the committee he made the loan to Powell in 1952 so that the Negro congressman could buy a sports car.

Kent also said that two of Powell's congressional secretaries are managers of the project.

Powell is a Negro congressman from Harlem.

Bank President's Wife Falls Off Pier, Drowns

EDGEWATER, Md., Sept. 27 (AP)—The wife of a Baltimore bank president drowned at the South River Club near here yesterday while she and her husband were celebrating their 36th wedding anniversary.

The victim was Mrs. Elma H. Wrightson, whose husband, Frank W. Wrightson, is president of the Provident Savings Bank in Baltimore.

Anne Arundel County police said the Wrightsons had been having dinner with friends at the club. They said Mrs. Wrightson left the room and was walking along a pier when she fell into the water.

McCarthy Pledges Fight To Prevent Setting 'Precedent'

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Chicago Tribune said tonight Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) made this comment on a Senate committee's recommendation that he be censured by the full Senate:

"If the Senate upholds this report and all its implications, it will have gone a long way toward abdication of its constitutional right to investigate wrongdoings in the executive departments.

"I do not care whether I am censured or not but I will fight against establishing a precedent which will curb investigate power and assist any administration in power to cover up its misdeeds."

Ex-GI Held Four Years In Soviet Prison Dies

LAWTON, Okla., Sept. 27 (AP)—Homer Cox, 33, ex-GI imprisoned by the Russians for four years, died early today of pneumonia, apparently as an after-effect of his rigorous prison life.

Cox was found unconscious in a motel last night and taken to a hospital where he was placed under an oxygen tent. He failed to regain consciousness.

Death ended a period of tragedy and frustration for the former soldier who gained his freedom from a Russian prison only last December.

Dulles Calls On Churchill

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill received a 30-minute courtesy call this evening from U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. A crowd of about 2,500 gathered in front of 10 Downing St. They cheered when Churchill shook hands with Dulles.

Mao Renamed Red China Boss With Chu No. 2

TOKYO, Tuesday, Sept. 28 (AP)—The People's Congress yesterday renamed Mao Tze-tung No. 1 man in Communist China and handed the No. 2 post to aging Gen. Chu Teh, Red Army commander.

Peiping radio said the elections were unanimous. But it seemed obvious that Mao had hand-picked his old comrade-in-arms for the position which would make Chu top man should Mao die. Mao's health supposedly is bad.

Chou, Liu Passed Over

Passed over were the two Chinese Communist leaders most often mentioned as possible successors to Mao—Premier Chou En-lai and Liu Shao-chi, the party's theoretician.

Chou retained his position as Premier. Liu was made chairman of the Standing Committee of the People's Congress.

Mao's title under the new constitution will be chairman of the People's Republic of China. Chu is vice chairman. Both serve four-year terms.

Mao is granted broad, dictatorial powers, and these can be wielded by the vice chairman should the chairman die or become incapacitated by illness.

Power Struggle Rumored

Peiping radio said "a storm standing ovation swept over the hall" when Mao's election was announced and there were shouts of "long live Chairman Mao."

Chu is 68. Both Lie and Chou are 58.

There have been rumors out of Red China that Liu and Chou were in a struggle for power as Mao's health waned. It is possible Mao selected Chu as a compromise if these reports are true.

However, in any battle for power after Mao's death, neither Chou nor Liu could be counted out.

Jury Chosen To Try Washington Gambler

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP) — A jury of 10 men and two women was seated in Federal Court today to try Washington gambler Samuel R. Beard on charges he evaded $1,634,991 in income taxes.

Shortly after the jury was sworn, Judge William C. Coleman recessed the trial until 10 a.m. tomorrow.

70% Of White Pupils Absent As Milford School Reopens

MILFORD, Del., Sept. 27 (AP)—Milford's integrated high school reopened without undue furor today but less than 30 per cent of the white pupils showed up for classes.

Ten of the 11 Negro pupils enrolled in the 10th grade reported for school, attended their sparsely populated classes and then went home under police guard. There were no incidents in this race-tense town of 5,700. Some of the absent white pupils were kept home by parents fearful of violence or opposed to integration.

Of the 1,562 pupils enrolled in elementary and high school grades at the Lakeview Ave. School, 456 were on hand when the school's classes started.

This number decreased during the day as the restive pupils fidgeted under the glare of attention from cameramen and newsmen on the school law. At lunch time some pupils wandered out of school, bantered with newsmen and said they were going home for the day.

Meanwhile, the situation was reported normal at the all-Negro Benjamin Banaker School where 237 elementary grade pupils are enrolled.

The schools were closed last week by the now resigned Milford School Board. The state education board assumed jurisdiction and with the aid of 15 state policemen and the eight-man Milford police force reopened the schools today.

A crowd of about 100 persons gathered on the sidewalk and lawns of the school early this morning. Generally they were orderly but when they gathered in small groups or started talking loudly they were dispersed by police.

Probers Urge Public Rebuke Of Wis. Senator

Committee Decides Two Charges Justify Censure Resolution

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—A public and official reprimand for Sen. McCarthy was recommended today by a Senate committee of three Democrats and three Republicans.

The committee said the Wisconsin Republican should be censured for conduct it described as contemptuous, contumacious, denunciatory, unworthy, inexcusable and reprehensible.

The report, which surprised many by its vigor, set the stage for what promises to be long and bitter debate in the special Senate session convening Nov. 8 to consider the recommendations.

In voting unanimously for censure on three counts, arising out of two of the five main categories of charges, the investigating committee headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) held that:

McCarthy was "contemptuous, contumacious and denunciatory" toward a Senate subcommittee which investigated his finances in 1952.

He made statements about fellow senators on the subcommittee that were "clearly intemperate, in bad taste and unworthy of a member of this body."

He treated Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, when the general was a witness before him, in a manner that was "inexcusable" and "reprehensible."

Committed "Grave Error"

The Watkins committee said other charges brought against the controversial senator "do not, under all the evidence, justify a resolution of censure."

These were that McCarthy had sought to incite federal employes to break the law to bring him government secrets, and that he had improperly received and used confidential information from executive files.

But while recommending against censure in these instances, the committee said the evidence did show McCarthy had "committed a grave error" and acted improperly, showing "a high degree of irresponsibility."

McCarthy, under treatment at the Naval Hospital at Bethesda, Md., made no comment. But his lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, said the senator will make a vigorous defense on the Senate floor that will require "quite a considerable time."

Flanders Praises Probers

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt), whose resolution set off the inquiry leading to today's report, commented:

"I think they have done a good job.

"The fact that the investigation was done in a completely judicial atmosphere lends more strength to the charges that were sustained than if all the charges had been sustained after hearings carried on in a flamboyant atmosphere."

The committee found no grounds for censuring McCarthy for having said of Flanders: "Senile—I think they should get a man with a net and take him to a good quiet place."

This "highly improper" remark, the report said, was provoked by speeches Flanders made against McCarthy and by Flanders' dramatic appearance at the McCarthy-Army hearings to give McCarthy notice that he was going to attack him in a Senate speech.

The committee, in addition to

AFL Condemns Sen. McCarthy

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27 (AP) — The American Federation of Labor convention today unanimously adopted a resolution condemning Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) as "unworthy of the American tradition" and accusing him of "reckless disregard of democratic procedures."

The resolution, submitted by Secretary-Treasurer Kenneth J. Kelly of the Massachusetts state Federation of Labor, said McCarthy had voted in the Senate against "every single major issue" designed to alleviate substandard living conditions on which communism flourishes.

The "No. 1 problem child of the Republican party has been more interested in headlines than in eliminating breadlines," Kelly told the convention.

Connecting it with the other trucks was a trail of gasoline poured on the ground. In the third truck in line was a blanket saturated with gasoline.

The attempted arson was discovered about 12:05 a.m. within 50 feet of the Secretary firehouse. The cab of one of the big trucks, gassed and ready to depart on hauls throughout the eastern seaboard, was destroyed. Firemen put out blazes in two other vehicles.

Thomas Wanex, 29, who lives above the firehouse, said he saw three strange men drive up in a passenger car and approach the trucks. A few minutes later, he said, he heard the door on one of the trucks slam, saw the men running and observed smoke. He rushed downstairs and pulled the fire siren.

It was then that the "act of God" happened, Todd said.

The second truck in the line started under its own power when the ignition wires burned through.

As spectators watched in astonishment, the flaming truck backed between two adjoining trucks and continued until it reached a position about 40 feet away where it stopped, its cab burning.

Had it remained in line the fire probably would have spread quickly along the trail of gasoline to all the trucks.

Dean Says H-Bomb Book Major Libel

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—A new book on the hydrogen bomb today was called a "major libel" on the atomic research center at Los Alamos, N. M., by Gordon Dean, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Dean said the book is "so loaded with false statements, it's terrible, particularly in reference to Los Alamos."

His comment came after James R. Shepley, co-author of the book "The Hydrogen Bomb," said on a television program yesterday Dean tried to stop publication of the book, although he had not read it.

"That's not true," Dean said. "I had read it." He added he had urged AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss to try to see that either the book was not published, or that it was corrected to adhere to facts.

Poll Reveals Senate Split Over Report

Survey Indicates Rough And Tumble Floor Fight Looms

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Wide and sharp splits developed among Senate members tonight over a special committee report recommending that Sen. McCarthy be censured for his conduct.

The range of reaction foreshadowed a rough and tumble floor scrap when the Senate reconvenes Nov. 8 to take up the issue.

An Associated Press survey of senators who could be reached promptly in various parts of the country showed this division:

Senators apparently inclined to approve censure, although not committed—11.

29-Senators Noncommittal

Senators praising the committee membership or its work, without indicating how they will vote—6.

Senators who were noncommittal—29.

Total Senate membership is 96.

Sample comments:

Sen. Welker (R-Idaho) said he disagreed "unhesitatingly" with the committee's recommendation and declared he would vote "emphatically no" on censuring McCarthy.

Sen. Lehman (D-Lib)NY): "It is now clear that Sen. McCarthy should not only be censured but should be removed immediately from his chairmanship of senatorial committees."

Most Reserve Judgment

Sen. Carlson (R-Kan), a member of the special committee on censure, served notice that he would fight for adoption of its report, and Sen. Robertson (D-Va) said: "My present feeling is that I shall vote to accept its report."

But most senators reserved judgment on the committee's recommendations. Some indicated they wanted to give McCarthy a chance to defend himself on the Senate floor before deciding how to vote; others declined to comment until they can study the 40,000 word report.

From President Eisenhower's headquarters in Denver, Murray Snyder, assistant press secretary, said: "That's strictly Senate business. The White House will have no comment."

Navy Chief Says Russia Striving For Top Place

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 27 (AP)—Adm. Robert B. Carney said tonight that if Soviet Russia continues to increase its naval strength at the present rate the United States must either accelerate its own program or risk falling behind.

The chief of naval operations added that the bulk of the swiftly expanding Red Fleet is of ultra-modern design while the majority of American warships are of World War II vintage.

Soviet Navy Ranks No. 2

In an address prepared for delivery to a joint meeting of the Navy League and the Minneapolis Foreign Policy Assn., Carney said: "The rise of the Soviet Navy makes it crystal clear that the Soviet government is striving for a preeminent position in the maritime world. Already they have achieved second-ranking naval position in the world quantitatively; and their building and expansion programs, both in noncombatant and merchant tonnage, can only lead one to believe that they are not content to remain a second-ranking sea power."

Deficiencies In U. S. Fleet

The admiral said there are some deficiencies in the U.S. Fleet that the modernization program cannot correct.

"Within the next five years or so, the seagoing vigor of the great majority of our smaller type anti-submarine and escort vessel will have waned," he said. "Already many of them are kept operating only by intense maintenance and repair and their equipment is obsolete."

Austria Renews Fight

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—Austria today renewed her eight year fight for membership in the United Nations. She first applied for membership in 1947 and has since been vetoed twice by Soviet Russia.

Extradition Waived By Roberts, Accused Of Slaying Daughter

TOWSON, Md., Sept. 27 (AP)—James T. Roberts, 43-year-old lawyer, waived extradition today and returned to Miami, Fla., where he faces an indictment charging him with killing his 7-year-old daughter, Judith Ann, last July 7.

Roberts, handcuffed, left here by car with two Florida detectives shortly after he appeared before Circuit Judge J. Howard Murray.

After reading the indictment which charged him and a "John Doe and-or Mary Roe" with "striking and strangling" the child and causing her death, the burly Roberts sighed the extradition waiver with the comment:

"If I had known this I would have gone down long ago to clear myself."

Motive Not Announced

Police have not announced a motive for the slaying of Judith Ann whose battered body was found in a thicket on Biscayne Bay a few hours after she had been stolen from the Miami home of her well-to-do grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rosenberg.

There were signs of a sexual attack, but medical authorities testified at an inquest that these injuries could have been inflicted to make it appear Judith Ann had been criminally attacked.

"It had to be planned as a harmless kidnaping," said the slain girl's grandfather in Miami today. "It had to be that way."

Motive Speculated

Calm at the news of the arrest of their son-in-law, the Rosenbergs speculated about a motive. Perhaps it was an effort to extort money from him, he said.

"They couldn't have gotten a lot out of me. I don't have much money any more."

Mrs. Rosenberg volunteered that at the very most she and the grandfather might have raised $15,000 as ransom.

Builder Says He Made Loan To Rep. Powell

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-NY) was described today in testimony before the Senate Banking Committee, as recipient of a $3,000 loan, still not repaid, from the builder of an interracial cooperative apartment project in Queens.

The builder, David Kent, told the committee he made the loan to Powell in 1952 so that the Negro congressman could buy a sports car.

Kent also said that two of Powell's congressional secretaries are managers of the project.

Bank President's Wife Falls Off Pier, Drowns

EDGEWATER, Md., Sept. 27 (AP)—The wife of a Baltimore bank president drowned at the South River Club near here yesterday while she and her husband were celebrating their 36th wedding anniversary.

The victim was Mrs. Elma H. Wrightson, whose husband, Frank W. Wrightson, is president of the Provident Savings Bank in Baltimore.

Anne Arundel County police said the Wrightsons had been having dinner with friends at the club. They said Mrs. Wrightson left the room and was walking along a pier when she fell into the water.

McCarthy Pledges Fight To Prevent Setting 'Precedent'

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Chicago Tribune said tonight Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) made this comment on a Senate committee's recommendation that he be censured by the full Senate:

"If the Senate upholds this report and all its implications, it will have gone a long way toward abdication of its constitutional right to investigate wrongdoings in the executive departments.

"I do not care whether I am censured or not but I will fight against establishing a precedent which will curb investigate power and assist any administration in power to cover up its misdeeds."

Ex-GI Held Four Years In Soviet Prison Dies

LAWTON, Okla., Sept. 27 (AP)—Homer Cox, 33, ex-GI imprisoned by the Russians for four years, died early today of pneumonia, apparently as an after-effect of his rigorous prison life.

Cox was found unconscious in a motel last night and taken to a hospital where he was placed under an oxygen tent. He failed to regain consciousness.

Death ended a period of tragedy and frustration for the former soldier who gained his freedom from a Russian prison only last December.

Dulles Calls On Churchill

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill received a 30-minute courtesy call this evening from U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. A crowd of about 2,500 gathered in front of 10 Downing St. They cheered when Churchill shook hands with Dulles.

Mao Renamed Red China Boss With Chu No. 2

TOKYO, Tuesday, Sept. 28 (AP)—The People's Congress yesterday renamed Mao Tze-tung No. 1 man in Communist China and handed the No. 2 post to aging Gen. Chu Teh, Red Army commander.

Peiping radio said the elections were unanimous. But it seemed obvious that Mao had hand-picked his old comrade-in-arms for the position which would make Chu top man should Mao die. Mao's health supposedly is bad.

Chou, Liu Passed Over

Passed over were the two Chinese Communist leaders most often mentioned as possible successors to Mao—Premier Chou En-lai and Liu Shao-chi, the party's theoretician.

Chou retained his position as Premier. Liu was made chairman of the Standing Committee of the People's Congress.

Mao's title under the new constitution will be chairman of the People's Republic of China. Chu is vice chairman. Both serve four-year terms.

Mao is granted broad, dictatorial powers, and these can be wielded by the vice chairman should the chairman die or become incapacitated by illness.

Power Struggle Rumored

Peiping radio said "a storm standing ovation swept over the hall" when Mao's election was announced and there were shouts of "long live Chairman Mao."

Chu is 68. Both Lie and Chou are 58.

There have been rumors out of Red China that Liu and Chou were in a struggle for power as Mao's health waned. It is possible Mao selected Chu as a compromise if these reports are true.

However, in any battle for power after Mao's death, neither Chou nor Liu could be counted out.

Jury Chosen To Try Washington Gambler

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP) — A jury of 10 men and two women was seated in Federal Court today to try Washington gambler Samuel R. Beard on charges he evaded $1,634,991 in income taxes.

Shortly after the jury was sworn, Judge William C. Coleman recessed the trial until 10 a.m. tomorrow.

70% Of White Pupils Absent As Milford School Reopens

MILFORD, Del., Sept. 27 (AP)—Milford's integrated high school reopened without undue furor today but less than 30 per cent of the white pupils showed up for classes.

Ten of the 11 Negro pupils enrolled in the 10th grade reported for school, attended their sparsely populated classes and then went home under police guard. There were no incidents in this race-tense town of 5,700. Some of the absent white pupils were kept home by parents fearful of violence or opposed to integration.

Of the 1,562 pupils enrolled in elementary and high school grades at the Lakeview Ave. School, 456 were on hand when the school's classes started.

This number decreased during the day as the restive pupils fidgeted under the glare of attention from cameramen and newsmen on the school law. At lunch time some pupils wandered out of school, bantered with newsmen and said they were going home for the day.

Meanwhile, the situation was reported normal at the all-Negro Benjamin Banaker School where 237 elementary grade pupils are enrolled.

The schools were closed last week by the now resigned Milford School Board. The state education board assumed jurisdiction and with the aid of 15 state policemen and the eight-man Milford police force reopened the schools today.

A crowd of about 100 persons gathered on the sidewalk and lawns of the school early this morning. Generally they were orderly but when they gathered in small groups or started talking loudly they were dispersed by police.

Probers Urge Public Rebuke Of Wis. Senator

Committee Decides Two Charges Justify Censure Resolution

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—A public and official reprimand for Sen. McCarthy was recommended today by a Senate committee of three Democrats and three Republicans.

The committee said the Wisconsin Republican should be censured for conduct it described as contemptuous, contumacious, denunciatory, unworthy, inexcusable and reprehensible.

The report, which surprised many by its vigor, set the stage for what promises to be long and bitter debate in the special Senate session convening Nov. 8 to consider the recommendations.

In voting unanimously for censure on three counts, arising out of two of the five main categories of charges, the investigating committee headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) held that:

McCarthy was "contemptuous, contumacious and denunciatory" toward a Senate subcommittee which investigated his finances in 1952.

He made statements about fellow senators on the subcommittee that were "clearly intemperate, in bad taste and unworthy of a member of this body."

He treated Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, when the general was a witness before him, in a manner that was "inexcusable" and "reprehensible."

Committed "Grave Error"

The Watkins committee said other charges brought against the controversial senator "do not, under all the evidence, justify a resolution of censure."

These were that McCarthy had sought to incite federal employes to break the law to bring him government secrets, and that he had improperly received and used confidential information from executive files.

But while recommending against censure in these instances, the committee said the evidence did show McCarthy had "committed a grave error" and acted improperly, showing "a high degree of irresponsibility."

McCarthy, under treatment at the Naval Hospital at Bethesda, Md., made no comment. But his lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, said the senator will make a vigorous defense on the Senate floor that will require "quite a considerable time."

Flanders Praises Probers

Sen. Flanders (R-Vt), whose resolution set off the inquiry leading to today's report, commented:

"I think they have done a good job.

"The fact that the investigation was done in a completely judicial atmosphere lends more strength to the charges that were sustained than if all the charges had been sustained after hearings carried on in a flamboyant atmosphere."

The committee found no grounds for censuring McCarthy for having said of Flanders: "Senile—I think they should get a man with a net and take him to a good quiet place."

This "highly improper" remark, the report said, was provoked by speeches Flanders made against McCarthy and by Flanders' dramatic appearance at the McCarthy-Army hearings to give McCarthy notice that he was going to attack him in a Senate speech.

The committee, in addition to

AFL Condemns Sen. McCarthy

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27 (AP) — The American Federation of Labor convention today unanimously adopted a resolution condemning Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) as "unworthy of the American tradition" and accusing him of "reckless disregard of democratic procedures."

The resolution, submitted by Secretary-Treasurer Kenneth J. Kelly of the Massachusetts state Federation of Labor, said McCarthy had voted in the Senate against "every single major issue" designed to alleviate substandard living conditions on which communism flourishes.

The "No. 1 problem child of the Republican party has been more interested in headlines than in eliminating breadlines," Kelly told the convention.

U. N. Members Who Deal With Reds Hit By Nationalist China

Minister Denounces Geneva Conference

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 27 (AP)—Nationalist China's foreign minister today struck at what he called the growing tendency of some U. N. members to negotiate outside the U. N. with Red China.

In strong words, the minister, George K. C. Yeh, denounced the Geneva Conference and repeated his long-standing contention that the Soviet Union has qualified for expulsion from the U. N.

In other speeches, the Philippines, Australia and the Netherlands lined up in support of President Eisenhower's "atoms-for-peace" proposals. Carlos P. Romulo, former president of the U.N. Assembly and now delegate from Manila, said the time has come for the United States to state how much nuclear material it will contribute and what funds it will allow for the proposed international pool.

Yeh told the delegates that the Soviet Union talks of peaceful coexistence but Moscow actually wants to incapacitate the United Nations for major political decisions. He did not make a formal expulsion move, however.

As to the Geneva Conference where Red China gained its first international platform, Yeh said the parley legalized the fruits of aggression and brought about the dismemberment of Indochina against the wishes of the people.

Foreign Minister Richard G. Casey, Australia, said his country would play her part in any international agency set up under the "atoms-for-peace" plan.

The delegates are waiting for Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky to make his speech. Vishinsky, working on it, passed out word this weekend that he must not be disturbed. He has kept closely guarded any proposals he will make.

Byrd Says Bonus Bill Must Provide For Financing

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Democrat H. C. Byrd, candidate for governor of Maryland, said today he never meant to give the impression he would sign any bonus bill passed by the Legislature.

It must be a bill "providing a reasonable means" of financing a bonus to war veterans, he explained.

This is the same stand he took on the bonus issue in his campaign for nomination last spring.

Speaking extemporaneously at a Democratic meeting in Baltimore last week, Byrd criticized Republican Gov. McKeldin for vetoing a bonus measure after it was passed by the 1954 General Assembly.

Byrd said at that time he would, if elected governor, sign any bonus bill approved by the Legislature, but he did not refer to "a reasonable means of financing."

In an oral statement today the candidate said he apparently was "misunderstood."

Seven Indicted In Abortion Case

WARRENTON, Va., Sept. 27 (AP)—A grand jury today indicted Dr. George Thomas Strother, a Brunswick, Md., physician on five counts of performing abortions. Six other persons were indicted on charges of aiding and abetting.

Among those indicted on the latter charges was Strother's wife, Mrs. Ruth Strother, 38, also of Brunswick. The others were Mrs. Mary C. Boyer, 48, of Brunswick; Mrs. Helen Grimes, 46, and her husband, Jesse F. Grimes, 42, both of Alexandria, Va., Frank B. French, 30, and Melvin Lee Bainer, 28, both of Washington, D. C.

Judge Rayner V. Snead of Fauquier County Circuit Court, acting on motion of defense counsel, scheduled Strother's arraignment for Nov. 9 and trial for Nov. 15.

Cases of the six others were continued for arraignment until Nov. 22. Their defense counsel contended the outcome of the arraignment and trial of Strother, 54, could have bearing on arguments in these cases.

Gov. McKeldin Breaks Ground For Hospital

HAGERSTOWN, Sept. 27 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin broke ground today for the third and final chronic disease hospital in a Maryland program the governor said is aimed at rehabilitation where possible of the aged and ill.

The new three million dollar hospital is located just north of the northern edge of Hagerstown on the site of the present Washington County home for the aged.

AFL Calls On Its Unions To Seek New Wage Hikes

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor wound up its annual convention today with a call on its unions to seek "substantial" new wage boosts and not be "deceived" by employer claims they cannot afford them.

The convention adopted a batch of resolutions at its final sessions, many voicing new criticism of President Eisenhower's administration and saying the economic picture is worse than the administration will admit.

However, the convention cautioned its unions against believing that unions should forego wage increases or "being deceived by employers in a basically sound financial position who attempt to maneuver unions into abandoning wage increase efforts on grounds of the general economic downturn."

Union officials who become involved in theft or mishandling health and welfare funds were branded as "traitors" and promised they would be ousted in a policy resolution. The AFL pledged its full cooperation in congressional investigations and in writing safeguarding legislation.

The convention said "labor-endorsed candidates appear to be in a better position to win in November than in any election since 1948."

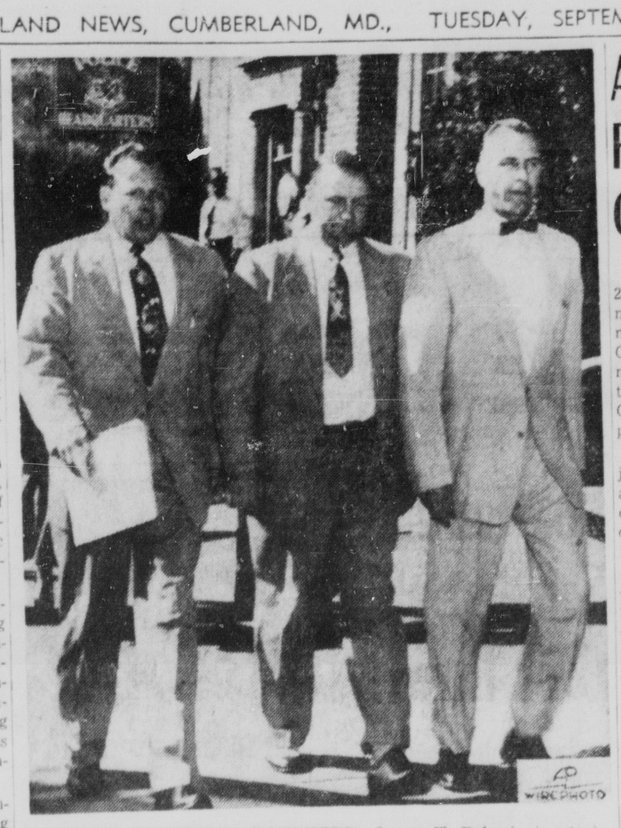

The administration was challenged on the claim made here earlier in a speech by Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell that the country is experiencing "the mildest contraction that we have ever had in any postwar period."

Saying that the present situation in many respects is worse than in 1949, the convention declared: "The 1954 recession shows no sign of abandoning its grip on our economy." It called for government public works, housing aid, and other steps to boost the economic level.

Guilty Of War Crimes

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 27 (AP)—A former German army sergeant was sentenced today to 12 years in prison for torturing fellow soldiers in a Yugoslav prisoner of war camp to obtain false war crimes confessions.

The German court said in its verdict that ex-Sgt. Henrich Pfeiffer, 47, "by most grave maltreatment and barbaric torture methods, aided the Yugoslav state" in illegally confining former German soldiers.

Legion Will Back Dinner For Cohn

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Maryland Department of the American Legion today threw its "wholehearted" support behind a testimonial dinner for Roy M. Cohn—reversing a stand taken earlier this month when it withdrew as a sponsor.

Daniel H. Burkhardt, state adjutant of the Legion made the announcement as a result of a meeting of the Legion's executive board yesterday.

He said Department Commander Benjamin B. Buckner submitted the question of the dinner, Oct. 5, to the committee and it decided:

1. That the commander and the Americanism chairman were correct in sponsoring the dinner and seiminar originally.

2. That when the question of politics arose, the commander was correct in withdrawing until the committee reached a decision.

3. That after consideration, it was decided that the dinner-seminar specifically concerned Rabbi Benjamin Schultz of New York and Cohn. "Therefore, the American Legion, Department of Maryland, wholeheartedly supports and sponsors the affair."

what it had to say about censuring McCarthy, made two other recommendations to the Senate:

1. That no one-man committee hearings be permitted, except upon the authority of a majority vote of committee members.

2. That no testimony taken in a closed session be disclosed publicly unless authorized by a majority vote.

In point of volume, the 40,000-word report dealt most with the charges that McCarthy had been in contempt of a Senate Elections subcommittee that sought to probe his finances. McCarthy refused invitations to testify before it.

In this section, the report rejected the argument of McCarthy and attorney Williams that the 1952 subcommittee was not legally set up, and that the Senate does not have power to censure a senator for conduct occurring during his prior term as senator.

Williams re-raised the latter argument today, saying:

"There's no such thing as a retroactive censure. . . . It would be a most unfortunate precedent to hold that a senator could be censured for conduct in a prior congress. That has never been done before."

Attlee Declares Formosa Should Go To Red China

SCARBOROUGH, England, Sept. 27 (AP)—Former Prime Minister Clement Attlee declared today Formosa should be turned over to Red China along with rank-and-file Chinese Nationalists there. He urged the transfer of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to "some safe place."

The mild-mannered Laborite, just back from China and Russia, addressed the annual Labor party conference, which promptly acted on several important resolutions in line with his views.

1. The conference voted 4,358,000 to 1,822,000 against asking the United States to withdraw its air forces from British bases as a menace to the civilian population. Attlee had warned against hasty disarmament.

2. The Laborites called for Eisenhower-Churchill-Malenkov talks, but rejected a resolution rider which sought to keep the British government from manufacturing or ever using nuclear weapons. Attlee had told the delegates there should be top-level East-West talks about the hydrogen bomb threat.

3. The conference rejected about 3-2 two resolutions aimed at the new U.S.-sponsored Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. Attlee had voiced indirect support for SEATO, but expressed hope all countries in the area, including Red China, eventually will be brought into some nonaggression pact.

Today's balloting appeared to bode well for Attlee and other moderate Labor leaders in the big conference fight scheduled for tomorrow. The moderates will try to pass a resolution supporting in principle West German rearmament with safeguards. Aneurin Bevan's leftwingers oppose German rearmament in any form.

Legion Will Back Dinner For Cohn

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—The Maryland Department of the American Legion today threw its "wholehearted" support behind a testimonial dinner for Roy M. Cohn—reversing a stand taken earlier this month when it withdrew as a sponsor.

Daniel H. Burkhardt, state adjutant of the Legion made the announcement as a result of a meeting of the Legion's executive board yesterday.

He said Department Commander Benjamin B. Buckner submitted the question of the dinner, Oct. 5, to the committee and it decided:

1. That the commander and the Americanism chairman were correct in sponsoring the dinner and seiminar originally.

2. That when the question of politics arose, the commander was correct in withdrawing until the committee reached a decision.

3. That after consideration, it was decided that the dinner-seminar specifically concerned Rabbi Benjamin Schultz of New York and Cohn. "Therefore, the American Legion, Department of Maryland, wholeheartedly supports and sponsors the affair."

Probers Urge

what it had to say about censuring McCarthy, made two other recommendations to the Senate:

1. That no one-man committee hearings be permitted, except upon the authority of a majority vote of committee members.

2. That no testimony taken in a closed session be disclosed publicly unless authorized by a majority vote.

In point of volume, the 40,000-word report dealt most with the charges that McCarthy had been in contempt of a Senate Elections subcommittee that sought to probe his finances. McCarthy refused invitations to testify before it.

In this section, the report rejected the argument of McCarthy and attorney Williams that the 1952 subcommittee was not legally set up, and that the Senate does not have power to censure a senator for conduct occurring during his prior term as senator.

Williams re-raised the latter argument today, saying:

"There's no such thing as a retroactive censure. . . . It would be a most unfortunate precedent to hold that a senator could be censured for conduct in a prior congress. That has never been done before."

Attlee Declares Formosa Should Go To Red China

SCARBOROUGH, England, Sept. 27 (AP)—Former Prime Minister Clement Attlee declared today Formosa should be turned over to Red China along with rank-and-file Chinese Nationalists there. He urged the transfer of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to "some safe place."

The mild-mannered Laborite, just back from China and Russia, addressed the annual Labor party conference, which promptly acted on several important resolutions in line with his views.

1. The conference voted 4,358,000 to 1,822,000 against asking the United States to withdraw its air forces from British bases as a menace to the civilian population. Attlee had warned against hasty disarmament.

2. The Laborites called for Eisenhower-Churchill-Malenkov talks, but rejected a resolution rider which sought to keep the British government from manufacturing or ever using nuclear weapons. Attlee had told the delegates there should be top-level East-West talks about the hydrogen bomb threat.

3. The conference rejected about 3-2 two resolutions aimed at the new U.S.-sponsored Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. Attlee had voiced indirect support for SEATO, but expressed hope all countries in the area, including Red China, eventually will be brought into some nonaggression pact.

Today's balloting appeared to bode well for Attlee and other moderate Labor leaders in the big conference fight scheduled for tomorrow. The moderates will try to pass a resolution supporting in principle West German rearmament with safeguards. Aneurin Bevan's leftwingers oppose German rearmament in any form.

City Will Ask New Bids On Police Cruiser

Because of a misunderstanding over whether bids were for 1954 or 1955 models, a call for estimates for four Police Department cruisers will be readvertised.

Commissioner of Police and Fire William V. Keegan said bids submitted yesterday would be returned since the model was not specified in the original advertisement. The bid is for six-cylinder, two-door models.

Several other actions on bid issues were taken by the Mayor and Council:

Accepted was the bid of Eller Chevrolet ($1,500) for a one ton panel body truck for the Water Department.

Two bids were received for 50 patrolmen's uniforms for the Police Department. Bidding are Hirsh The Tailor, $54.84 for each uniform, and Swartzenbach's, $67.90, both of this city. These were referred to Keegan for reports.

Get Payloader Bids

Referred to Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum for report were the following bids on a payloader for the Street Department: McClung-Logan, Baltimore; Highway Equipment Company, Pittsburgh, and Rish Equipment Company, Clarksburg. Bids ranged from $7,900 to $8,950.

In other action council set Friday as pay day for city employes and agreed to the purchase for $6,500 of a property at 307 Water Street from the estate of Bertha Catherine Hager. The property is needed for the West Side flood control project.

Meter Collections Up

Parking Meter Inspector Harry Whisner reported collections increased $82.66 for the week September 12-19.

Water consumption for the week ending yesterday was 101,140,000 gallons compared to 108,000,000 during the same period a year ago. The water level at Lake Gordon is three feet three inches below the crest of the spillway and in Lake Koon seven feet one inch below.

Granted was a permit to Atlantic Refining Company for installation of storage tanks and a gasoline pump on Cumberland Transit Lines property, 1600 Ford Avenue.

Political mudslinging began in ancient Rome. All candidates for office wore the white toga—toga candida. If they were unpopular, people threw mud at them till their white raiment became the toga maculosa, the toga defiled by mud.

Water Rate Hike Granted To Ridgeley

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The town of Ridgeley in Mineral County received Public Service Commission authority yesterday to raise its water rates effective Oct. 1, and also to place in effect a sewage service charge.

The new water scale will include a minimum of $9.50 semi-annually, and charges of 38 cents per 100 cubic feet for the first 2,500 cubic feet used semi-annually, and 31 cents per 100 for all over 2,500.

Comparable present charges are $7.50, 30 cents and 25 cents.

Ridgeley buys its water from Cumberland, Md., and the municipality explained that because of a necessity to build a new bridge across the North branch of the Potomac River in a flood wall project, it also will be necessary to spend $5,000 for a new water line across the bridge.

The City of Cumberland will pay for the cost of the line, with Ridgeley repaying the Maryland municipality through 10 annual payments of $500 each.

The PSC said the proposed new rates would provide for repayment and also meet other operating expenses, provided Ridgeley takes steps which appear necessary to cut down excessive amounts of lost or unaccounted for water.

The commission also directed the municipality to bill its customers quarterly instead of semi-annually; to test all meters in Ridgeley for accuracy, and to take such steps toward repair and maintenance of distribution lines which might be necessary to reduce the amount of water lost.

The sewage service charge, which also will go into effect Oct. 1, will amount to 15 per cent of each consumer's water bill and is expected to bring $1,421 annually.

The flood wall project also makes necessary certain relocations in the municipal sewer system. The new revenue also will be used to finance a preliminary study in connection with a State Water Commission order that Ridgeley adopt a plan to cease pollution of the North Branch with untreated sewage.

City Will Host Quartermaster Group

The 584th Quartermaster Company, comprised of 125 troops and 12 vehicles, will stop at Constitution Park overnight on October 7.

Arrangements for the visit are in the hands of Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz and Police Commissioner William V. Keegan.

In a letter to the Mayor and Council, Lt. Col. V. F. Field, adjutant general of the Quartermaster Training Command, Fort Lee, Va., said the outfit will be enroute to Fort Lee from Fort Hayes, Ohio.

He said an area suitable for the evening meal and quarters for the night would be necessary and asked official approval of previous information that the park would be available.

Council has agreed to proclaim the week of October 3-9 as National Pharmacy Week and Fire Prevention Week in keeping with requests of the Allegany County Pharmaceutical Association and Allegany-Garrett Association of Insurance Agents.

Referred to Buchholtz was the request of Allegany Chapter, American Red Cross, for a $1,000 donation toward its campaign for funds next March.

City Council of Beta Sigma Phi sorority asked permission to open a booth at the corner of Baltimore and Centre Streets December 21, 22, 23 to sell Christmas wreaths and greens.

The Junior Association of Commerce sent a copy of a resolution it has approved praising the faith shown in the community by Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and pledging its support.

Given Invocation

Rev. Paul E. Brunner, pastor of First Baptist Church, gave the invocation at yesterday morning's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

PTA Council Dinner Slated

The third annual fellowship dinner of the Allegany County Council of Parent Teachers Association will be held tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Shoplifting, Larceny Cases Are Heard

Charged with larceny, Roy Lawrence Phillips, 32, of 101 Park Street, was sentenced yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court to six months in the Maryland House of Correction.

Phillips pleaded guilty to stealing an electric fan and camera valued at $50 from the home of his mother, with whom he resided.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason pointed out that Phillips served a one year term in 1949 on a bad check charge and was convicted on previous larceny counts.

Lola J. Grayson, 54, of 405 East Oldtown Road, was ordered held in Allegany county jail and later released for a medical examination after she confessed to shoplifting at Cardell's Store on Baltimore Street. The woman told authorities she picked up three pair of women's panties valued at $2 Saturday evening.

City To Replace Lateral Pipes In Old Filters

New Plan Proposed For Paving Street

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards was authorized yesterday to advertize for bids for some 7,000 feet of pipe needed to replace lateral pipes in the old filters at the Lake Gordon filtration plant.

The action was taken at an emergency meeting of the city officials yesterday at noon.

Officials explained that about 10 per cent of the lateral pipes in the filters, which have been in service since 1912, must be replaced.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said it was considered good economy to renew all of the pipes now, when filter materials have been removed.

Collect Water

The laterals are made of two inch wrought iron pipe, pierced each three inches. They perform the joint function of collecting filtered water and discharge holes for water used to wash the filters. There are 52 lateral pipes on each of the 12 old filters.

Earlier, council had met with William R. Carscaden, general chairman of Cumberland Community Chest campaign, and Edward L. Ewald concerning the city's contribution. No decision was reached, Eves said.

Council also met with residents of Roeth Avenue in connection with an adjustment on the nature of repairs to the street.

Expect Agreement

Mayor Eves said a plan proposed by property owners has been conveyed to the contractor and that council expects a mutually satisfactory agreement to be effected.

Spokesmen for the 11 property owners affected suggested that temporary surfacing, used with excellent results by the city last year, be substituted for the stone base and blacktop surfacing specified in the pact. Standard curbs would be built as called for in the original plan.

The Cumberland Contracting Company submitted a bid of $9,811.50 for curbing and surfacing the 400 foot stretch.

Phone Union Takes Vote For Strike

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Telephone workers in Maryland, Washington, D. C. and nearby Virginia are set to strike if necessary to back up wage demands, CIO communications workers union officials said today.

Involved would be several thousand commercial, plant and maintenance workers. Maryland has more than 4,000. Three Washington area locals have 7,000 members from the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia.

A strike would be subject to approval of the union's executive board.

Edward Darcey, Maryland representative for the CIO's Communications Workers of America, said locals throughout the state have voted "overwhelmingly" in favor of a walkout if one is needed to support contract demands.

John L. Monaghan, District of Columbia director of the CWA, said the 7,000 Washington area workers have voted willingness to strike over the contract.

No new date for a meeting between the union and the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. had been set today.

Union officials said the union seeks wage boosts that range between four and six cents an hour.

Darcey said the company has offered wage boosts ranging between $1 and $2.50 a week. He said the $2.50 raise would be limited to a few top workers. More than one quarter of the telephone workers in Maryland would come in for no boost and many for $1 hikes, he added.

In Baltimore, a company spokesman said it has offered a $2.50 boost in Baltimore and $1.50 in the counties.

Another point of issue is pay differentials—the same job drawing different pay in different areas. The union wants this wiped out.

W. L. Clark, president of the Salisbury local of the CWA, said for instance the difference between Baltimore and Salisbury in some of the top phone crafts is $10.50 a week.

W. Va. Farmers' Fertilizer Purchases Off

West Virginia farmers and other users of commercial fertilizers purchased 60,347 tons during the first six months of 1954 according to J. B. McLaughlin, commissioner of agriculture.

Compared to the first half of 1953 sales in the Mountain State were down about 7,000 tons or 11 percent. Most of the decline occurred in the sales of super phosphate during the period. Sales of mixed fertilizers at 55,000 tons was almost the same as a year earlier, while unmixed nitrogen was slightly larger at 2,537 tons. The sales of 5-10-10 was the largest followed by 3-12-6.

Based on the average retail prices that farmers were paying around April 15 the total cash outlay for fertilizers amounted to around 3.2 million dollars during the first half of the year. The bulk of this money was spent for mixed fertilizers which amounted to 2.9 million. In addition unmixed nitrogen cost .2 million and phospates and potash around .1 million dollars.

City To Replace Lateral Pipes In Old Filters

New Plan Proposed For Paving Street

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards was authorized yesterday to advertize for bids for some 7,000 feet of pipe needed to replace lateral pipes in the old filters at the Lake Gordon filtration plant.

The action was taken at an emergency meeting of the city officials yesterday at noon.

Officials explained that about 10 per cent of the lateral pipes in the filters, which have been in service since 1912, must be replaced.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said it was considered good economy to renew all of the pipes now, when filter materials have been removed.

Collect Water

The laterals are made of two inch wrought iron pipe, pierced each three inches. They perform the joint function of collecting filtered water and discharge holes for water used to wash the filters. There are 52 lateral pipes on each of the 12 old filters.

Earlier, council had met with William R. Carscaden, general chairman of Cumberland Community Chest campaign, and Edward L. Ewald concerning the city's contribution. No decision was reached, Eves said.

Council also met with residents of Roeth Avenue in connection with an adjustment on the nature of repairs to the street.

Expect Agreement

Mayor Eves said a plan proposed by property owners has been conveyed to the contractor and that council expects a mutually satisfactory agreement to be effected.

Spokesmen for the 11 property owners affected suggested that temporary surfacing, used with excellent results by the city last year, be substituted for the stone base and blacktop surfacing specified in the pact. Standard curbs would be built as called for in the original plan.

The Cumberland Contracting Company submitted a bid of $9,811.50 for curbing and surfacing the 400 foot stretch.

Phone Union Takes Vote For Strike

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Telephone workers in Maryland, Washington, D. C. and nearby Virginia are set to strike if necessary to back up wage demands, CIO communications workers union officials said today.

Involved would be several thousand commercial, plant and maintenance workers. Maryland has more than 4,000. Three Washington area locals have 7,000 members from the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia.

A strike would be subject to approval of the union's executive board.

Edward Darcey, Maryland representative for the CIO's Communications Workers of America, said locals throughout the state have voted "overwhelmingly" in favor of a walkout if one is needed to support contract demands.

John L. Monaghan, District of Columbia director of the CWA, said the 7,000 Washington area workers have voted willingness to strike over the contract.

No new date for a meeting between the union and the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. had been set today.

Union officials said the union seeks wage boosts that range between four and six cents an hour.

Darcey said the company has offered wage boosts ranging between $1 and $2.50 a week. He said the $2.50 raise would be limited to a few top workers. More than one quarter of the telephone workers in Maryland would come in for no boost and many for $1 hikes, he added.

In Baltimore, a company spokesman said it has offered a $2.50 boost in Baltimore and $1.50 in the counties.

Another point of issue is pay differentials—the same job drawing different pay in different areas. The union wants this wiped out.

W. L. Clark, president of the Salisbury local of the CWA, said for instance the difference between Baltimore and Salisbury in some of the top phone crafts is $10.50 a week.

W. Va. Farmers' Fertilizer Purchases Off

West Virginia farmers and other users of commercial fertilizers purchased 60,347 tons during the first six months of 1954 according to J. B. McLaughlin, commissioner of agriculture.

Compared to the first half of 1953 sales in the Mountain State were down about 7,000 tons or 11 percent. Most of the decline occurred in the sales of super phosphate during the period. Sales of mixed fertilizers at 55,000 tons was almost the same as a year earlier, while unmixed nitrogen was slightly larger at 2,537 tons. The sales of 5-10-10 was the largest followed by 3-12-6.

Based on the average retail prices that farmers were paying around April 15 the total cash outlay for fertilizers amounted to around 3.2 million dollars during the first half of the year. The bulk of this money was spent for mixed fertilizers which amounted to 2.9 million. In addition unmixed nitrogen cost .2 million and phospates and potash around .1 million dollars.

Korean Vet Is Sentenced To Workhouse

Belle Grove Youth Convicted Of Arson

Lester Frederick Joy, 22, of Belle Grove, has been sentenced from 11 to 22 months in the Allegheny County (Pa.) Workhouse on a charge of arson.

Joy entered a guilty plea when tried in Quarter Sessions Court at McConnellsburg, Pa. The youth was apprehended last month by Cpl. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police at the LaVale Barracks.

He was originally taken into custody in connection with the larceny of 24 cases of beer from a truck on U. S. Route 40 at Belle Grove in April 1950. After the larceny, Joy entered the service and saw action in Korea.

Upon his return the arrest followed an investigation of the case by Cpl. Baker. It was while he was in custody that he was questioned concerning the burning of a barn owned by James Jordan, of Bethel Township, just north of Belle Grove in Pennsylvania's Fulton county.

Authorities here turned Joy over to Pennsylvania to answer the arson charge.

Cpl. Baker said that Joy and another young man were out with Jordan's daughter one night and did not bring her home until a late hour. When they reached the farm house, Jordan engaged in a heated argument with the young men and struck Joy with a club.

About 3 a. m. the morning following the altercation Joy and his companion returned to the farm property and set fire to the farmer's barn. A large quantity of hay, several calves and two dogs were destroyed along with the barn. The loss was estimated at $3,000. Joy's companion is still at large.

W. Va. State Trooper Disarms Teenage Youth

MOOREFIELD—A West Virginia state trooper was forced to disarm a teenage youth after the boy and a young companion fled from a stolen car which would have been stopped during a routine road check.

Being held in Hardy county jail at Moorefield, W. Va., for Baltimore authorities are James Stuart and Jerry Hannigan, both 15, who were arrested Sunday by Trooper Donald Burner. Both boys also said they were residents of Baltimore.

Trooper Burner, of the Moorefield State Police detachment, was conducting a road check on Route 220 between that town and Petersburg when he noticed two persons fleeing from a car which had stopped a short distance from where he was conducting the check.

Giving chase, Trooper Burner had caught up with the two youths when one of them pulled a .32 calibre automatic revolver from his clothes.

Trooper Burner managed to knock the weapon from the youth's hand before it could be fired. An examination disclosed the weapon to be fully loaded, with a cartridge in the firing chamber, Trooper Burner said.

The two youths were taken to the Hardy county jail, where they admitted stealing the car in Baltimore. Ownership of the car had not been determined, Trooper Burner said, adding that Maryland authorities were notified in order that it could be returned

Railroad Crafts Urge Job Help For Unemployed

B&O Local Federation 7 has asked cooperation of the Mayor and Council in procuring jobs for furloughed B&O workers wherever possible.

In a letter to council, Kenneth R. Alderton, secretary, said the organization is concerned with the large number of employes furloughed since the first of the year, and that the total is a source of skilled labor needed in the construction and operation of the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company.

Council Expresses Views

The letter was filed after these comments by various members of council:

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said his department is hiring men on a temporary basis whenever they are needed.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long said he believed council should confer with the Pittsburgh Plate employment office, the contractor and union involved. He said it must be remembered Cumberland represents 60 per cent of the taxpaying group in Allegany County.

'Outsider" Rumors False

Mayor Roy W. Eves stated the company will employ no one until the plant is constructed and he understood the Hazelwood Company, which has a contract to prepare the site for construction work, is giving Cumberland people preference.

The Mayor added that rumors about outsiders coming in for employment "by the truckloads" had been checked and proved false. Eves said only engineers are here to supervise grading at the Mexico Farms site and other work won't get under way until next spring.

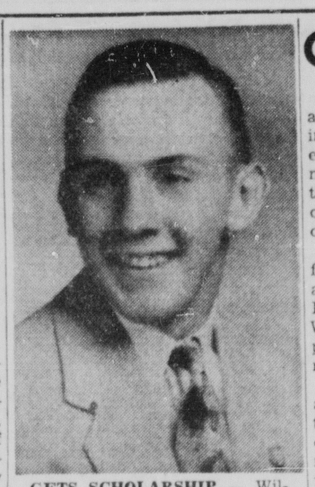

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan said he understood Pittsburgh Plate will set up its own employment office when the time comes.

Letter Acknowledged

The Housing and Home Financing Agency, Philadelphia, acknowledged receipt of a letter from Mayor Eves concerning availability of funds for advance planning on the city's proposed water distribution system.

William F. Barrett, acting for William D. Jones, acting regional administrator, said the federal agency will forward necessary application forms soon.

Mayor Eves on September 23 had informed the agency the city is confronted with augmenting its water supply which comes from the Evitts Creek watershed. He said this plan will require thorough engineering studies of the present shed and other possible sources of supply. He requested information on obtaining advance funds for surveys and necessary forms.

GETS SCHOLARSHIP — William Bruce Lynn, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Lynn, 704 Shades Lane, has received a scholarship to Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore. A 1954 graduate of Fort Hill High School, he plans to study engineering.

Ladies Shrine Club Dinner This Evening

The Ladies Shrine Club will open its fall activities with a covered dish dinner today at 6:15 p. m. at the Masonic Temple.

The meat course will be furnished by the committee whose chairman is Mrs. James R. Hatfield.

The business meeting of the club will follow dinner with Mrs. James C. Duff presiding. Miss Elizabeth Brown and Mrs. L. C. Millholland will be in charge of the card party at the close of the business session.

Charter Issue Vote Believed Necessary

The Mayor and Council believes a charter amendment referendum in connection with the crosstown expressway (overhead bridge) must be held under provision of the law regardless of how the decision goes in a pending injunction case in Circuit Court.

The feeling was expressed, in effect, by both Mayor Roy W. Eves and City Attorney Thomas B. Finan after a letter from Attorney William R. Carscaden, representing petitioners for the charter amendment, was read.

The petition which has been authenticated by the Mayor, seeks to halt council from entering into a contract with the State Roads Commission or earmarking money for the project, and calls for a referendum.

Meanwhile, W. Wallace McKaig has asked an injunction in Circuit Court to stop the project. Both sides have filed briefs in the case and a preliminary conference, at which issues will be ironed out, is awaited. After that the case will be set for a hearing.

No Provision To Stop Vote

Mayor Eves pointed out there is no provision set forth for not holding the referendum and further stated that if held at the regular election time no added expense would be involved. Should a special election be necessary, it is estimated the cost would be $10,000.

Carscaden, in his letter yesterday said council could set in general terms (30, 60 or 90 days after the court decision on validity of the SRC contract) a time for a referendum. He also cited the possibility both sides have the right of appeal.

The letter added that was no reason for holding the referendum at this time, and that if the plaintiff (McKaig) prevails in the court case, the referendum becomes a "moot question" and will not be needed.

Finan Takes Issue

It was on this point Finan took issue. He said it is not a "moot question inasmuch as the charter amendment says the city shall not enter into any contract."

Finan added he did not know if the court will find the proposed contract as being beyond the power of council, but he thinks the SRC might suggest an amended contract. Even if that occurs, Finan continued, it will still come within provisions of the charter amendment which says the city shall not enter into any contract.

Eves said Carscaden's letter indicated there was some chance a referendum would not be necessary but, he added, he thinks it must be held.

Carscaden wrote that the people he represents want to cooperate in every way.

If the plaintiff prevails, he said, they will consent that no referendum be held. On the other hand, they will insist a referendum be held within a reasonable time after the conclusion of the court case if the decision is in favor of the city.

Plenty Of Scandal To Go Around

In the years following World War II, housing was badly cramped and Congress wrote laws which, in retrospect, seem to have been too liberal. The Federal Housing Administration, charged with implementing the laws, went around the country trying to drum up builder interest in rental housing by offering government-insured mortgages large enough to cover costs.

So, the situation was set up whereby builders, with complete legality, could start huge building projects on a shoestring, but with no gamble involved.

The key to the "windfall" operation, which is now fairly familiar to the public, was the chance of getting a mortgage, insured by the government, in excess of the actual cost of the building project. Many took advantage of it. FHA figures, still incomplete, indicate that cash "windfalls," that is, the difference between actual cost and the amount of the insured mortgage, have been discovered in just under 1500 cases in FHA records.

While the amounts varied greatly, the total taken by the builders in windfalls is estimated at about $110,000,000. Who was the actual loser? The taxpayer for one. Also, the residents of the apartment or housing projects who had to pay higher rents, because the rental unit was figured on the total mortgage figure and not the actual cost.

The housing scandals, which broke into print last spring, disclosed more than the windfall operations. There is strong evidence of bribery and corruption. Investigation of the operations of Clyde L. Powell (who, until his enforced resignation last April was the assistant commissioner of the FHA) is being pushed by Attorney General Brownell. The Justice Department is also preparing action in the case of one "windfall" operator as a test case, to see whether or not the dividend can be recovered.

Powell, and others as yet unnamed, are in line for grand jury action. So, even if the government has no legal case against the "windfall" recipients, there is apparently enough scandal within the FHA structure to go around. The rise to power of Powell, who had a long police record prior to his employment by the government, should be delved into thoroughly.

These Days

Not The Solution

Sarah O'Connell, in charge of membership promotion of "The Committee to Combat Communism, Inc." writes me suggesting that I support the idea of cutting off all relations with Soviet Russia. In her letter she says:

"You point out that it is the policy of the Soviet Universal State to isolate us and limit our political influence in Europe and Asia. Why is it not our policy to isolate the Soviet and limit its influence by cutting off all relations with it, so that communism must turn back upon itself, wither and die? We find it unaccountable that this 'anti-Communist' administration we elected now refuses to take this step, and continues to expand Red prestige and provide more opportunities for communism to feed upon the free world, spread out and isolate us."

I fear that Miss O'Connell has not recently looked at a map. Precisely how can the United States isolate the Soviet Universal State, a land mass that runs from the Elbe River in central Europe to the Pacific Ocean, from the North Pole to the 17th Parallel in Indochina? This land mass includes about 800,000,000 human beings and an enormous reservoir of untapped natural resources. While the Soviet Universal State prefers to make purchases of machinery and machine tools and similar heavy imports from Western countries, it is not dependent upon such imports. It is close to self-sufficiency as to raw material and food products.

If ever its vast areas are connected by an adequate means of communications, there ought to be no area with an inadequate food supply. Unless the Soviet Universal State is destroyed by war or internal revolution, it is likely that in half a century, such a means of communication can be produced.

Precisely how does one isolate such an area? Isolate it from what? The United States, which needs to import raw materials and to export manufactured and agricultural goods, requires open lanes on the oceans to move its goods. The Soviet Universal State is not dependent on ocean lanes. The geography of the Soviet Universal State, rather than its politics, determines its position. Czarist Russia failed to take full advantage of the potentialities of the territory. Soviet Russia is conscious of geographic factors.

Let us take another idea from Miss O'Connell's letter: How would the United States limit the influence of Soviet Russia by cutting off relations with it? Would we lessen the Russian influence in any satellite country? In Red China, for instance? Would it make any difference to India, to France or Italy? What actually would be accomplished except perhaps the moral satisfaction of refusing associations with an unpleasant country?

Breaking off relations with a country could mean one of two things: either the ambassadors, ministers and consuls of both countries are withdrawn and nothing more happens, or the two countries go to war. Is that the program proposed?

The advantage of Miss O'Connell's program is not clear to me. In 1945, we might have turned against our then ally, Soviet Russia, as that ally turned on us. We might have done dozens of things because the United States was strong and Soviet Russia was weak. Today that is not the position. The United States is not ready to make war on Soviet Russia; all indications are that Soviet Russia is not ready to make war on the United States, but our strength and weakness seem to be about evenly balanced. That is the reason for all the nervousness, the political activities, the conferences, the press interviews, and all sorts of activities which keeps our secretary of state hopping. Nobody really knows what to do, but the world wants peace.

Communism can only be fought by knowledge, by understanding and by a realistic view of the problems that face us. Communism cannot be fought successfully merely by loud articulation of anti-communism, of sentimental anti-communism. Enough misery has appeared in the world because of errors in judgment as to how to fight communism. The Korean War was obviously not the way because we lost that one. Communism can be fought in the United States as a domestic matter, and even as to that, few judgments are based on a sufficient knowledge of the Communist movement. In each country the battle takes on different characteristics. Cutting off diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia at this moment will solve no problem.

Can't Someone Else Get In To Brush Their Teeth?

Scientists Aim To Make Old Age More Comfortable

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—The "agonizing reappraisal" — promised several months ago by the United States Government in the event that France rejected the European Defense Community agreement—now is being made.

Serious consideration is being given here to an alternative strategy. This calls for the gradual withdrawal of the six divisions of American troops now stationed in Continental Europe. It calls for an emphasis on air power to be applied from bases on land and sea encircling Soviet Russia.

Rejection of the European Defense Community agreement by the French Parliament is regarded curiously enough as a blessing in disguise by some of the military planners here. All along they have felt that it was foolhardy to maintain six American divisions in Europe to be sacrificed in the event the Red army with its 200 divisions started to march toward France.

Reversal A "Gamble"

The London Conference this week might conceivably offer on paper some new alignment of the European nations interested in defense including promises from France. But the chances of all this affecting the new American approach are remote. For the reappraisal has been carried to the point where any reversal would be regarded as a "gamble." All this has been done without public announcement except some vaguely phrased warnings which probably are being mistakenly regarded in Paris as sheer bluff.

The United States Government, moreover, is well aware that there may develop amid the confusing counsels in France a neutralist policy and even a drive for possible collaboration between Moscow and Paris. But such developments, instead of retarding or modifying the new American strategy, will only be regarded here as fortifying and justifying the "agonizing reappraisal" now in process.

What many Europeans have overlooked is that inside the United States for the last five years there has been a steady build-up of public opinion behind a movement to rely on the deterrent effect of air power as the best defense against the next war. Only a limited amount of money is available in the American budget anyhow if taxes are to be reduced. So the proponents of more air power have constantly been looking askance at the billions being spent, wastefully as they see it, to maintain a big American land army in Europe and to support the land armies of other countries.

The doctrines of the air-power enthusiasts fit in exactly with the latest developments in French policy. These are seen as demonstrating how unreliable the land-army situation can be when it is geared to France where 100 Communist deputies in the French Parliament can defeat a policy of defensive planning after more than two years of preparation. American generals of ground forces have become impatient over the long delay in coming to a decision over the European Defense Community Agreement. Now that the French have made their decision, the military planners here are switching their emphasis to what is called "peripheral strategy" — a strategy operated from bases on the outer edges of Europe.

Core Of American Policy

This means reliance on land bases in Britain and the Low Countries and Germany in the approaches through the Baltic area. It means dependence on bases in Spain, Italy, Austria, Greece, Turkey, Iran and Pakistan, from which giant bombers can take off within a few hours flying time of the factories and military installations in the heart of Soviet Russia. It means also more aircraft carriers for the Mediterranean and the North Atlantic. It means, in fact, the mobilization of Allied air power of all kinds to impress the rulers in the Kremlin that the real deterrent force is "massive retaliation." This phrase has been seized upon by the neutralists in Europe and a few misguided politicians in the Democratic party here as an object of ridicule but it is the core of American policy.

"Massive retaliation" does not mean and never has meant intervention in "little wars" with atomic weapons but a strategy for resisting the main attack that might come from the Red air force. It means that airplanes of the United States carrying the superbombs will fly from places of their own choosing but only in case of an attack by Russia itself or the United States or any other member of the North Atlantic treaty.

Incidentally, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization which has had its headquarters in Paris probably will be moved in the next few months either to London or some other European center. For the United States as a result of the action of the French Parliament no longer feels committed to the kind of NATO command setup now in existence in Paris but only to the obligations of the treaty itself. Since other ways of implementing the treaty seem desirable, changes in its military strategy are inevitable also. It would appear that the United States Government refuses to "gamble" any more with a hesitant, vacillating, procrastinating France.

There is no bitterness here toward France in all this but merely a regrettable reappraisal of the weakness of France which now is regarded realistically as too torn from within by Communist-inspired dissention to play a full part in the defense of Europe in the years immediately ahead.

Agonizing Reappraisal Of U.S. Policy Now Being Made

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

This is the age of the aged. Every day in the United States, approximately 1,500 persons celebrate their 65th birthday. At this rate there will be more than 20 million oldsters by 1975, as compared with 3 million at the turn of the century.

According to Dr. William M. Baurys, of 100 Americans 70 years old, only one can expect to reach age 95, four will live to be90, 17 will reach 85, 40 will celebrate their 80th birthday, and 70 will live to be 75. What are the chances of hitting the century mark? Only one in 50,000 will make it and anyone who improves on these odds deserves the Nobel prize.

One-third of all 65-year-olds are employed. Some have disabilities that make working impossible; others are retired or cannot find a job. But the majority are mentally alert and physically fit. Many continue to do their best work at this time of life.

In our own era we can cite Paderewski, who was still giving concerts at age 79 and Booth Tarkington, who wrote 16 novels after the age of 60. The 19th Century produced Tennyson, who published "Crossing the Bar" at age 83 and an earlier notable, Benjamin Franklin, penned his autobiography when he was over 80. Michelangelo was in his 80s when he painted the ceiling of the Sistine chapel.

All eras had their productive oldsters but the number has increased because so many more children are being saved. Infancy and childhood were once the most dangerous years. Before the turn of the century, 20 per cent of all children died before their first birthday; now, only 3 per cent fail to survive.

But the man or woman who lives four or more decades has the same life expectancy today as did the 40-year-old of 100 years ago. The trick to living a long life is to escape the pitfalls of infancy, childhood, and youth.

The wonder drugs help combat pneumonia and surgery is better and safer than it ever was. This means that our life expectancy should be much higher but these factors are counterbalanced by the increased death toll from accidents and stress diseases. More people are living to an age where cancer and heart and blood vessel disorders are rife.

The future looks bright, however, because researchers are turning their attention to reducing deaths from degenerative diseases. Furthermore, they are concentrating on adding life to years; a comfortable old age is their aim.

Try And Stop Me

Zsa-Zsa Hornblow, the doughty old maid who had inherited the Hornblow Nut and Bolt factory from her father, Uriah Hornblow, and ran it with an iron hand, caught sight of a young fellow leaning idly against the wall, whistling and twiddling his thumbs. The outraged Zsa Zsa shrilled, "You there! What's your weekly salary." "Thirty bucks," vouchsafed the idler. "Humphh!" snorted Zsa Zsa. "Here's your thirty dollars. Now vamoose! You're fired." The young man pocketed the thirty and left, exuding good will.

Zsa Zsa watched till he was off the premises, then demanded of Foreman Al Shirley, "How long was that waster on our payroll?" "He never was, ma'am," said Al patiently. "He was just taking orders for cokes and sandwiches for the drug store."

There was the suspicion of a tear in the old traveling salesman's eye as he said softly, "I miss my good wife's cooking — whenever I possibly can."

Secretary Benson Buys New Plane — For Paratroopers, Not Pleasure

Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — A network radio commentator recently chided Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson for buying an airplane that Secretary of the Interior McKay decided he didn't want. It looked as if Benson, according to this account, was using the plane for pleasure purposes.

Though Benson has made mistakes as secretary of agriculture, he can't justly be accused of wasting money on himself. Real fact is that he saved money for the Agriculture Department by buying this plane.

What happened was that the Interior Department's Reclamation Bureau decided it no longer needed a Lockheed Lodestar, and put it up for sale through the General Services Administration which handles government surplus.

Benson's Agriculture Department promptly bought it, not for hauling VIP's around, but to carry forest service paratroopers who have to jump from planes to put out forest fires. To have purchased the plane out right would have cost the government around $100,000. But thanks to Benson's transaction, it cost only $17,000 to convert the plane into a "smoke-jumper."

Strong U. N.

Look for a rocky session of the U. N. General Assembly. There are 66 items on the agenda, several of them potentially more explosive than the admission of Red China to membership.

Among the explosives are:

1.—An Indian motion to protest the use of the Pacific islands as an H-bomb testing ground. The Indians say that since these islands, including Eniwetok and Bikini, are trust territories of the United Nations, they therefore cannot be used for the H-tests which threaten the lives of islanders.

2.—A Greek motion to protest the buildup of Cyprus, a British island adjacent to Greece, as a British naval base.

All week the British have been working backstage, trying to line up delegates to quash the Greek motion. The United States will abstain from voting because it involves the rights of small nations against the strategic needs of major powers. On the other hand, many Latin-American friends as well as the semi-hostile Arab bloc and the Soviet bloc will side with the Greeks and the British may fail in a vote which all of Europe will be watching.

Senator Wiley Complains

Senator Alexander Wiley, loquacious senior senator from Wisconsin, is so burned up at the newspapers he's almost lost his loquaciousness. However, he managed to lecture one reporter for 15 minutes on the subject last week.

Alex claimed he was badly misrepresented in the papers when they said he said Congress should not be called back to Washintgon because of the McCarthy issue.

What Alex said he did was that it would be a very serious thing if a session of Congress were to be called now because the question of EDC was bound to come up and might have serious international consequences. The Foreign Relations Committee came within one vote of stopping aid to France, Wiley pointed out, and a Senate debate now might be disastrous.

"I told those men," Wiley bellowed, as he got up from his chair and started pacing the floor.

"They were sitting right there," he pointed, "and I told them that it had nothing to do with McCarthy. The leaders can't bring Congress back for a specific action, so there is bound to be some action on EDC.

"Why can't you guys get things straight? Why do you have to put words into our mouths just to get a story?

"I'll be watching you, now," he cautioned. "I want you to get this right."

McCarthy And Massachusetts

Able Senator Jack Kennedy of Massachusetts, will probably go to the hospital during the debate to censure McCarthy. Kennedy has a legitimate excuse — an old war wound. But he will choose the particular moment of the McCarthy debate to be hospitalized because of his huge McCarthy following in Massachusetts. . . . Senator Saltonstall, also from Massachusetts and now up for re-election, would like to go to the hospital if the censure vote comes before November. Saltonstall has stood well with the Boston Irish ever since, as governor, he vetoed the birth control bill. So he's been worried sick about the prospect of voting on McCarthy. . . . Young Kennedy might have a second political purpose for going to the hospital — skipping any campaigning for Foster Furcolo, the capable state treasurer who's opposing Saltonstall. John is said to figure a second Democratic senator would diminish his own political stature and perhaps pit popular Salty against him in 1958.

Behind McCarthy Censure Curtain

It can now be revealed that Senator Flanders' mystery visit to the Watkins Committee was to offer him secret data on behalf of Secretary of the Army Stevens. . . . Stevens has been red-faced over the drubbing Republican members at the Army-McCarthy hearings gave him and has had aides burning the midnight oil to puncture some of McCarthy's and Roy Cohn's testimony. They directed particular fire to the statement by McCarthy's private secretary that she had transcribed various memos which described with uncanny foresight McCarthy's trouble with Secretary Stevens and Army Counsel John Adams. McCarthy was able to pull these memos out of his files in an amazing manner at a crucial time, and the Senate committee was never able to make a test of the typed pages to see whether they were actually transcribed when McCarthy said they were or as a spur-of-the-moment afterthought. . . . But though Secretary Stevens prepared volumes of evidence and submitted it to the Watkins Committee through Senator Flanders, Watkins ruled it out. So the Army research still remains a top secret in the Pentagon.

"Wicked Enterprise"

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK — (INS) — My gracious, I never knew what a wicked enterprise American college football is until I received the latest copy of Poprostu, published in Red Poland for university students.

How's this for a play-by-play account?—

"Facing each other along a white line, two rows of barbarians dressed in huge steel helmets jump up and down. Suddenly, there is a whistle. With a wild scream such as was probably uttered by the first cave men when they crushed the heads of their enemies with stone axes, the two armored rows crush against each other: One can hear the breaking of bones, the dull thudding of steel helmets, and see how the heavily-armored boots crush the hands and feet of opponents.

"Again the shrill whistle. Twenty-one armored robots stretch their arms, the twenty-second lies on the ground like a corpse.

"'OK,' the man with the whistle shouts. 'Everything is OK. And take Jim off the field. Call a surgeon.'"

Jim who? The author doesn't specify. He doesn't even use a byline, this fellow who hates American football—an unusual rancor for a Pole, if my memory is clear as to bygone lineups of Notre Dame, Pitt and other U. S. grid giants.

Otto Graham and other astute quarterbacks will learn here and now that American football's motto is "brawn over brain." It says so right in Poprostu. Also ". . . The popularity of football is much greater (in the U. S.) than that of baseball or rugby."

If I didn't know that Poprostu worships truth I'd say that's a pretty reckless statement. I don't know about baseball, but let's not give rugby in this country short shrift. There must be dozens of rugby players here.

Notre Dame takes more of a beating in Poprostu than it ever took on the field. But the writer doesn't spare the Harvards and Yales either. Seems the Harvards and Yales brought football to the U. S. in 1860, after seeing football (soccer) played abroad. But they "changed the noble game into a wild melee." As a consequence, when Princeton and Rutgers played the first intercollegiate match in 1869, "seven players had to be carried away from the battlefield with broken arms and legs."

That glowering old imperialist, Coach Red Blaik of West Point, is quoted to support Poprostu's contention that American football is a lot more menacing than meets the eye. Red is made to say, "If it had not been for football, American youth would not be so well prepared for the great task of ruling the world."

The sheet praises Al Capp's parodies of backwoods football as "reflecting the reality of American universities." And adds:

"American universities serve only one purpose: To educate murderers, thoughtless robots, obedient tools of the monopolist clique."

M.I.T., the University of Chicago, Amherst, etc. may consider closing their doors when they learn, ". . . The prestige of an American school is based not on its scholarly achievements but on the success of its football teams."

We harvest from the article that old gridders Matthew Ridgway and James Van Fleet are "criminals" and were the worst students at West Point. As for another old gridder: "General Eisenhower, who had been the second worst student in his class, received his diploma thanks only to his 'good legs.' This was openly admitted by his biographer, John Gunther."

Notre Dame, "first in the National League," is driven to excesses on the field by secret incantations mumbled by Cardinal Spellman Poprostu reveals. This announcement could possibly lead to scores of attractive offers to his eminence from teams that never do as well in the "National League" as the Irish.

Our boy finishes strong, running in several directions: "The few examples and statements given here eloquently illustrate the degeneracy and depravity of 'sportsmen'—students of American universities. And could those 'supermen' with the brains of troglodytes, those armor-clad robots rule the world and impose their American style of life on nations with old and established cultures? How comical and nonsensical are the insane dreams of those crusaders of dollars and Coca-Cola, paying god-like honors to an ostrich egg and diplomas acquired only with the help of one's legs."

Well, I'm convinced. No American college football for me this fall except on Friday nights, Saturdays and Thanksgiving.

NO DANGER

M. I. writes: A child I know has chicken pox and the mother has been letting him play in the back yard. The mother claims that so long as the weather is nice it won't do the child any harm. I always thought a child with this disease should be kept inside. Please advise.

REPLY

There is no harm in letting the child play out in the yard so long as he is over the acute stage of the disease and will not mingle with other children.

LOOKING INTO STOMACH

D. F. writes: For what purpose is a gastroscopy done?

REPLY

The physician looks into the stomach with the gastroscope when X-rays do not show the cause of severe symptoms. On some occasions, symptoms are severe but X-rays may be normal. In other cases, the pictures suggest a malignancy and further investigation is in order.

WEAK THUMBS

Mrs. L. writes: I'm 68 years old and have had arthritis for years but suddenly my thumbs have become so weak I can scarcely use them. There is no pain. Is this a forerunner of some awful disease?

REPLY

Examination is in order because thumb weakness occasionally results from a disturbance of the nervous system.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Plenty Of Scandal To Go Around

In the years following World War II, housing was badly cramped and Congress wrote laws which, in retrospect, seem to have been too liberal. The Federal Housing Administration, charged with implementing the laws, went around the country trying to drum up builder interest in rental housing by offering government-insured mortgages large enough to cover costs.

So, the situation was set up whereby builders, with complete legality, could start huge building projects on a shoestring, but with no gamble involved.

The key to the "windfall" operation, which is now fairly familiar to the public, was the chance of getting a mortgage, insured by the government, in excess of the actual cost of the building project. Many took advantage of it. FHA figures, still incomplete, indicate that cash "windfalls," that is, the difference between actual cost and the amount of the insured mortgage, have been discovered in just under 1500 cases in FHA records.

While the amounts varied greatly, the total taken by the builders in windfalls is estimated at about $110,000,000. Who was the actual loser? The taxpayer for one. Also, the residents of the apartment or housing projects who had to pay higher rents, because the rental unit was figured on the total mortgage figure and not the actual cost.

The housing scandals, which broke into print last spring, disclosed more than the windfall operations. There is strong evidence of bribery and corruption. Investigation of the operations of Clyde L. Powell (who, until his enforced resignation last April was the assistant commissioner of the FHA) is being pushed by Attorney General Brownell. The Justice Department is also preparing action in the case of one "windfall" operator as a test case, to see whether or not the dividend can be recovered.

Powell, and others as yet unnamed, are in line for grand jury action. So, even if the government has no legal case against the "windfall" recipients, there is apparently enough scandal within the FHA structure to go around. The rise to power of Powell, who had a long police record prior to his employment by the government, should be delved into thoroughly.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Not The Solution

Sarah O'Connell, in charge of membership promotion of "The Committee to Combat Communism, Inc." writes me suggesting that I support the idea of cutting off all relations with Soviet Russia. In her letter she says:

"You point out that it is the policy of the Soviet Universal State to isolate us and limit our political influence in Europe and Asia. Why is it not our policy to isolate the Soviet and limit its influence by cutting off all relations with it, so that communism must turn back upon itself, wither and die? We find it unaccountable that this 'anti-Communist' administration we elected now refuses to take this step, and continues to expand Red prestige and provide more opportunities for communism to feed upon the free world, spread out and isolate us."

I fear that Miss O'Connell has not recently looked at a map. Precisely how can the United States isolate the Soviet Universal State, a land mass that runs from the Elbe River in central Europe to the Pacific Ocean, from the North Pole to the 17th Parallel in Indochina? This land mass includes about 800,000,000 human beings and an enormous reservoir of untapped natural resources. While the Soviet Universal State prefers to make purchases of machinery and machine tools and similar heavy imports from Western countries, it is not dependent upon such imports. It is close to self-sufficiency as to raw material and food products.

If ever its vast areas are connected by an adequate means of communications, there ought to be no area with an inadequate food supply. Unless the Soviet Universal State is destroyed by war or internal revolution, it is likely that in half a century, such a means of communication can be produced.

Precisely how does one isolate such an area? Isolate it from what? The United States, which needs to import raw materials and to export manufactured and agricultural goods, requires open lanes on the oceans to move its goods. The Soviet Universal State is not dependent on ocean lanes. The geography of the Soviet Universal State, rather than its politics, determines its position. Czarist Russia failed to take full advantage of the potentialities of the territory. Soviet Russia is conscious of geographic factors.

Let us take another idea from Miss O'Connell's letter: How would the United States limit the influence of Soviet Russia by cutting off relations with it? Would we lessen the Russian influence in any satellite country? In Red China, for instance? Would it make any difference to India, to France or Italy? What actually would be accomplished except perhaps the moral satisfaction of refusing associations with an unpleasant country?

Breaking off relations with a country could mean one of two things: either the ambassadors, ministers and consuls of both countries are withdrawn and nothing more happens, or the two countries go to war. Is that the program proposed?

The advantage of Miss O'Connell's program is not clear to me. In 1945, we might have turned against our then ally, Soviet Russia, as that ally turned on us. We might have done dozens of things because the United States was strong and Soviet Russia was weak. Today that is not the position. The United States is not ready to make war on Soviet Russia; all indications are that Soviet Russia is not ready to make war on the United States, but our strength and weakness seem to be about evenly balanced. That is the reason for all the nervousness, the political activities, the conferences, the press interviews, and all sorts of activities which keeps our secretary of state hopping. Nobody really knows what to do, but the world wants peace.

Communism can only be fought by knowledge, by understanding and by a realistic view of the problems that face us. Communism cannot be fought successfully merely by loud articulation of anti-communism, of sentimental anti-communism. Enough misery has appeared in the world because of errors in judgment as to how to fight communism. The Korean War was obviously not the way because we lost that one. Communism can be fought in the United States as a domestic matter, and even as to that, few judgments are based on a sufficient knowledge of the Communist movement. In each country the battle takes on different characteristics. Cutting off diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia at this moment will solve no problem.

Scientists Aim To Make Old Age More Comfortable

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—The "agonizing reappraisal" — promised several months ago by the United States Government in the event that France rejected the European Defense Community agreement—now is being made.

Serious consideration is being given here to an alternative strategy. This calls for the gradual withdrawal of the six divisions of American troops now stationed in Continental Europe. It calls for an emphasis on air power to be applied from bases on land and sea encircling Soviet Russia.

Rejection of the European Defense Community agreement by the French Parliament is regarded curiously enough as a blessing in disguise by some of the military planners here. All along they have felt that it was foolhardy to maintain six American divisions in Europe to be sacrificed in the event the Red army with its 200 divisions started to march toward France.

Reversal A "Gamble"

The London Conference this week might conceivably offer on paper some new alignment of the European nations interested in defense including promises from France. But the chances of all this affecting the new American approach are remote. For the reappraisal has been carried to the point where any reversal would be regarded as a "gamble." All this has been done without public announcement except some vaguely phrased warnings which probably are being mistakenly regarded in Paris as sheer bluff.

The United States Government, moreover, is well aware that there may develop amid the confusing counsels in France a neutralist policy and even a drive for possible collaboration between Moscow and Paris. But such developments, instead of retarding or modifying the new American strategy, will only be regarded here as fortifying and justifying the "agonizing reappraisal" now in process.

What many Europeans have overlooked is that inside the United States for the last five years there has been a steady build-up of public opinion behind a movement to rely on the deterrent effect of air power as the best defense against the next war. Only a limited amount of money is available in the American budget anyhow if taxes are to be reduced. So the proponents of more air power have constantly been looking askance at the billions being spent, wastefully as they see it, to maintain a big American land army in Europe and to support the land armies of other countries.

The doctrines of the air-power enthusiasts fit in exactly with the latest developments in French policy. These are seen as demonstrating how unreliable the land-army situation can be when it is geared to France where 100 Communist deputies in the French Parliament can defeat a policy of defensive planning after more than two years of preparation. American generals of ground forces have become impatient over the long delay in coming to a decision over the European Defense Community Agreement. Now that the French have made their decision, the military planners here are switching their emphasis to what is called "peripheral strategy" — a strategy operated from bases on the outer edges of Europe.

Core Of American Policy

This means reliance on land bases in Britain and the Low Countries and Germany in the approaches through the Baltic area. It means dependence on bases in Spain, Italy, Austria, Greece, Turkey, Iran and Pakistan, from which giant bombers can take off within a few hours flying time of the factories and military installations in the heart of Soviet Russia. It means also more aircraft carriers for the Mediterranean and the North Atlantic. It means, in fact, the mobilization of Allied air power of all kinds to impress the rulers in the Kremlin that the real deterrent force is "massive retaliation." This phrase has been seized upon by the neutralists in Europe and a few misguided politicians in the Democratic party here as an object of ridicule but it is the core of American policy.

"Massive retaliation" does not mean and never has meant intervention in "little wars" with atomic weapons but a strategy for resisting the main attack that might come from the Red air force. It means that airplanes of the United States carrying the superbombs will fly from places of their own choosing but only in case of an attack by Russia itself or the United States or any other member of the North Atlantic treaty.

Incidentally, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization which has had its headquarters in Paris probably will be moved in the next few months either to London or some other European center. For the United States as a result of the action of the French Parliament no longer feels committed to the kind of NATO command setup now in existence in Paris but only to the obligations of the treaty itself. Since other ways of implementing the treaty seem desirable, changes in its military strategy are inevitable also. It would appear that the United States Government refuses to "gamble" any more with a hesitant, vacillating, procrastinating France.

There is no bitterness here toward France in all this but merely a regrettable reappraisal of the weakness of France which now is regarded realistically as too torn from within by Communist-inspired dissention to play a full part in the defense of Europe in the years immediately ahead.

Agonizing Reappraisal Of U.S. Policy Now Being Made

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

This is the age of the aged. Every day in the United States, approximately 1,500 persons celebrate their 65th birthday. At this rate there will be more than 20 million oldsters by 1975, as compared with 3 million at the turn of the century.

According to Dr. William M. Baurys, of 100 Americans 70 years old, only one can expect to reach age 95, four will live to be90, 17 will reach 85, 40 will celebrate their 80th birthday, and 70 will live to be 75. What are the chances of hitting the century mark? Only one in 50,000 will make it and anyone who improves on these odds deserves the Nobel prize.

One-third of all 65-year-olds are employed. Some have disabilities that make working impossible; others are retired or cannot find a job. But the majority are mentally alert and physically fit. Many continue to do their best work at this time of life.

In our own era we can cite Paderewski, who was still giving concerts at age 79 and Booth Tarkington, who wrote 16 novels after the age of 60. The 19th Century produced Tennyson, who published "Crossing the Bar" at age 83 and an earlier notable, Benjamin Franklin, penned his autobiography when he was over 80. Michelangelo was in his 80s when he painted the ceiling of the Sistine chapel.

All eras had their productive oldsters but the number has increased because so many more children are being saved. Infancy and childhood were once the most dangerous years. Before the turn of the century, 20 per cent of all children died before their first birthday; now, only 3 per cent fail to survive.

But the man or woman who lives four or more decades has the same life expectancy today as did the 40-year-old of 100 years ago. The trick to living a long life is to escape the pitfalls of infancy, childhood, and youth.

The wonder drugs help combat pneumonia and surgery is better and safer than it ever was. This means that our life expectancy should be much higher but these factors are counterbalanced by the increased death toll from accidents and stress diseases. More people are living to an age where cancer and heart and blood vessel disorders are rife.

The future looks bright, however, because researchers are turning their attention to reducing deaths from degenerative diseases. Furthermore, they are concentrating on adding life to years; a comfortable old age is their aim.

TOMORROW: Hiatus hernia.

NO DANGER

M. I. writes: A child I know has chicken pox and the mother has been letting him play in the back yard. The mother claims that so long as the weather is nice it won't do the child any harm. I always thought a child with this disease should be kept inside. Please advise.

REPLY

There is no harm in letting the child play out in the yard so long as he is over the acute stage of the disease and will not mingle with other children.

LOOKING INTO STOMACH

D. F. writes: For what purpose is a gastroscopy done?

REPLY

The physician looks into the stomach with the gastroscope when X-rays do not show the cause of severe symptoms. On some occasions, symptoms are severe but X-rays may be normal. In other cases, the pictures suggest a malignancy and further investigation is in order.

WEAK THUMBS

Mrs. L. writes: I'm 68 years old and have had arthritis for years but suddenly my thumbs have become so weak I can scarcely use them. There is no pain. Is this a forerunner of some awful disease?

REPLY

Examination is in order because thumb weakness occasionally results from a disturbance of the nervous system.

In the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Zsa-Zsa Hornblow, the doughty old maid who had inherited the Hornblow Nut and Bolt factory from her father, Uriah Hornblow, and ran it with an iron hand, caught sight of a young fellow leaning idly against the wall, whistling and twiddling his thumbs. The outraged Zsa Zsa shrilled, "You there! What's your weekly salary." "Thirty bucks," vouchsafed the idler. "Humphh!" snorted Zsa Zsa. "Here's your thirty dollars. Now vamoose! You're fired." The young man pocketed the thirty and left, exuding good will.

Zsa Zsa watched till he was off the premises, then demanded of Foreman Al Shirley, "How long was that waster on our payroll?" "He never was, ma'am," said Al patiently. "He was just taking orders for cokes and sandwiches for the drug store."

There was the suspicion of a tear in the old traveling salesman's eye as he said softly, "I miss my good wife's cooking — whenever I possibly can."

"Wicked Enterprise"

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK — (INS) — My gracious, I never knew what a wicked enterprise American college football is until I received the latest copy of Poprostu, published in Red Poland for university students.

How's this for a play-by-play account?—

"Facing each other along a white line, two rows of barbarians dressed in huge steel helmets jump up and down. Suddenly, there is a whistle. With a wild scream such as was probably uttered by the first cave men when they crushed the heads of their enemies with stone axes, the two armored rows crush against each other: One can hear the breaking of bones, the dull thudding of steel helmets, and see how the heavily-armored boots crush the hands and feet of opponents.

"Again the shrill whistle. Twenty-one armored robots stretch their arms, the twenty-second lies on the ground like a corpse.

"'OK,' the man with the whistle shouts. 'Everything is OK. And take Jim off the field. Call a surgeon.'"

Jim who? The author doesn't specify. He doesn't even use a by-line, this fellow who hates American football—an unusual rancor for a Pole, if my memory is clear as to bygone lineups of Notre Dame, Pitt and other U. S. grid giants.

Otto Graham and other astute quarterbacks will learn here and now that American football's motto is "brawn over brain." It says so right in Poprostu. Also ". . . The popularity of football is much greater (in the U. S.) than that of baseball or rugby."

If I didn't know that Poprostu worships truth I'd say that's a pretty reckless statement. I don't know about baseball, but let's not give rugby in this country short shrift. There must be dozens of rugby players here.

Notre Dame takes more of a beating in Poprostu than it ever took on the field. But the writer doesn't spare the Harvards and Yales either. Seems the Harvards and Yales brought football to the U. S. in 1860, after seeing football (soccer) played abroad. But they "changed the noble game into a wild melee." As a consequence, when Princeton and Rutgers played the first intercollegiate match in 1869, "seven players had to be carried away from the battlefield with broken arms and legs."

That glowering old imperialist, Coach Red Blaik of West Point, is quoted to support Poprostu's contention that American football is a lot more menacing than meets the eye. Red is made to say, "If it had not been for football, American youth would not be so well prepared for the great task of ruling the world."

The sheet praises Al Capp's parodies of backwoods football as "reflecting the reality of American universities." And adds:

"American universities serve only one purpose: To educate murderers, thoughtless robots, obedient tools of the monopolist clique."

M.I.T., the University of Chicago, Amherst, etc. may consider closing their doors when they learn, ". . . The prestige of an American school is based not on its scholarly achievements but on the success of its football teams."

We harvest from the article that old gridders Matthew Ridgway and James Van Fleet are "criminals" and were the worst students at West Point. As for another old gridder: "General Eisenhower, who had been the second worst student in his class, received his diploma thanks only to his 'good legs.' This was openly admitted by his biographer, John Gunther."

Notre Dame, "first in the National League," is driven to excesses on the field by secret incantations mumbled by Cardinal Spellman Poprostu reveals. This announcement could possibly lead to scores of attractive offers to his eminence from teams that never do as well in the "National League" as the Irish.

Our boy finishes strong, running in several directions: "The few examples and statements given here eloquently illustrate the degeneracy and depravity of 'sportsmen'—students of American universities. And could those 'supermen' with the brains of troglodytes, those armor-clad robots rule the world and impose their American style of life on nations with old and established cultures? How comical and nonsensical are the insane dreams of those crusaders of dollars and Coca-Cola, paying god-like honors to an ostrich egg and diplomas acquired only with the help of one's legs."

Well, I'm convinced. No American college football for me this fall except on Friday nights, Saturdays and Thanksgiving.

Charlie Dressen Named Manager Of Washington Nationals

Veteran Pilot Inks Two-Year $40,000 Pact

Returns After Year In Minors To Take Bucky Harris' Place

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Charlie Dressen was appointed manager of the Washington Senators today for a two-year term.

The announcement came as no surprise. It had been rumored for some time the 55-year-old veteran was going to replace Bucky Harris at the helm of the Senators.

No salary was announced, but it was estimated to be about $40,000 a year plus a bonus based on attendance.

Spent Year Away

Dressen's return to the big leagues came only one year after he relinquished the reins of the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers for a managerial post with Oakland of the Pacific Coast League.

The veteran Californian did right well with the Acorns. He took a seventh place club and raised it to third. He then won the PCL's playoff championship.

Dressen's parting with the Dodgers after winning two straight National League pennants was one of the major news stories and surprises of 1953.

After losing to the Yankees in the World Series for the second straight year, Dressen insisted on a long-term contract of two or three years. President Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers stood pat on a one-year offer. They couldn't agree and Dressen quit the club on Oct. 14.

Barely Lost Pennant

In his first year as manager with the Brooks in 1951, Dressen barely lost the pennant to the Giants on Bobby Thomson's "miracle" homer in the post-season playoffs.

Dressen did a lot of travelling in baseball before he assumed the managerial post with the Dodgers. An infielder, he played with Cincinnati and the New York Giants. He was signed in 1934 by Larry MacPhail to manage the Reds. After four successive finishes in the second division, Dressen returned to the minors to manage Nashville of the Southern Association, a club he led in 1932-34.

For the next 10 years, Dressen served as big league coach—first with the Dodgers and later with the New York Yankees. In 1950 he went to the coast as manager of Oakland.

Got What He Wanted

"I'm very happy I got what I asked for," Dressen said.

The appointment was announced by Calvin Griffith, vice-president of the Senators.

"I'd have taken one year," Dressen said. "There was something behind the whole thing in Brooklyn. I wanted more than one year to knock down the rumors by some of those radio commentators who were beefing when I was away."

He didn't elaborate.

DRESSEN SIGNS PACT—Charlie Dressen, left, former manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League, and Calvin Griffith, executive vice president of the Washington Nationals of the American League, get together as Dressen signs to manage Washington for the next two years. It is estimated Dressen will get $40,000 a year plus a bonus based on attendance.

Bob Feller Seeks First Series Win

Veteran Takes Plane Ahead To New York

CLEVELAND, Sept. 27 (AP)—Bob Feller flew out of Cleveland early today, hoping to finally pitch a winning game in the World Series.

The aging Cleveland fire ball chucker missed two earlier attempts and this series against the New York Giants might give him his last chance—if he gets it.

Feller, now 35 years old, is the oldest player in the American League in point of service.

He is the only man to pitch three no-hit games in the 20th century. He has struck out more men in one game and in a season than any other pitcher. But he has never won a World Series game.

In 1948, the last time the Tribe played in the main event, he lost his first start, 1-0, to the Boston Braves although he gave up only two hits. That loss has rankled him ever since. He failed to finish his second start in that series.

Whether he will get another chance depends largely on how the Tribe does in the opening games this time. Manager Al Lopez says that "if we get out in front and get a chance to rest the big three, I'm sure Bob will get a start.

"If we have to keep coming from behind, I'm not so sure."

Art Houtteman, the manager continued, also "deserves a starting shot. He and Feller both have done fine. But a short series isn't like a full season. You can't use everybody."

Feller flew on ahead of the rest of the Indians who leave Cleveland tonight on a six-car special train. He won 13 and lost three during the regular season.

The Indians plan to work out tomorrow noon at the Polo Grounds in New York.

The Indians pitching staff this season had a collective earned run average of 2.78, the lowest in league history. The previous low for the staff was the 2.91 set by the 1942 Yankees.

Two pitchers, Bob Lemon and Early Wynn, won more than 20 games and the other member of the big three, Mike Garcia, finished with 19. Lemon was 23-7, Wynn 23-11 and Garcia 19-8.

Immediately after the ceremony, Mathews and his bride left by auto for California, Mathews' home state, where he will join Eddie Lopat's All Stars for a barnstorming trip to the Orient.

Bell Condemns 'Sleeper Play'

Used By Los Angeles In Baltimore Game

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27 (AP)—Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League today labeled "unsportsmanlike" an 80-yard sleeper pass play that started off the 48-0 rout scored by the Los Angeles Rams over the Baltimore Colts yesterday.

Bell condemned the action and issued instructions to all referees and coaches that any similar incident in the future should be outlawed.

"But this thing should never have happened in the first place," Bell told a newsman. "No matter how many good rules we have, somebody also comes up with something that we have to correct."

The play in question came about this way: Ram halfback Skeet Quinlan stayed near his bench's sideline against a background of Los Angeles uniforms while his 10 teammates lined up in the middle of the field on their own 20-yard line. It was the first play after the Colts' opening kickoff went over the goal.

None of the Baltimore players and few of the 36,215 fans noticed Quinlan as he raced down the sidelines after the play got under way. He took a pass from Norman Van Brocklin on the 45 and scored an easy touchdown.

Bell said he would send out a memorandum providing for an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty against any team that sends out a flanker to within five yards of the sideline on which its bench is located. This will hold for the full length of the field, Bell said, to prevent a man from being hidden against the background of uniforms from teammates who have just left or are just preparing to enter the game.

Allegany Jayvees Top Romney 27-6 For Initial Win

Five Players Share In Camper Scoring

Allegany High's football Jayvees, bouncing back from last week's 6-0 loss to LaSalle, defeated Romney High's Jayvees yesterday at Campobello by a 27-6 score. It was the JV's team's first win this season.

Five players shared in the Little Campers scoring, all of which was done in the first half. Coach Jim Hosack cleared his bench during the final two quarters.

Don Ware, AHS fullback, circled end for 21 yards and the initial touchdown early in the first quarter. Later in the same stanza Quarterback Jim Deremer hit End Ed Robinson with an 18-yard pass for another counter.

In the second period Doug Walker raced 30 yards to chalk up the third Allegany touchdown and before the first half ended the Hosackmen had scored again when sub quarterback Mike Lease pitched to Gary Holler on a play that covered 45 yards.

Lonnie Jackson added the extra point after the first three scores. His fourth attempt was blocked.

Held scoreless until the final minute of play Romney's Jayvees finally put together a sustained march with Quarterback Hanna sneaking over from the four.

Allegany registered 11 first downs to Romney's three, completed four of five passes, two good for scores, and gathered 187 yards rushing the ball. The losers netted eight of 12 aerials and made 81 yards on the ground. Two Romney passes were intercepted by an alert Allegany defense. The lineups:

Single Wing Keeps Terps On Overtime

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 27 (AP)—Coach Jim Tatum of the University of Maryland, a T-formation man who has taught his football team to defend against the T-formation, has single-wing worries.

They kept the Terps, who are drilling for a West Coast encounter with UCLA Friday night, on the practice field 30 minutes overtime today. UCLA uses the single wing.

Tatum said, "We have geared our team against the T-formation making necessary the extra work against the single wing. Only one man on our team, Joe Horning, has ever played college ball against the single wing."

AHS To Host Hagerstown Eleven Friday

Officials Are Named To Handle Contest; Campers Seek 3rd Win

Allegany High's Campers will seek their third straight football victory when they host a strong Hagerstown High School eleven Friday night at Fort Hill stadium. It will be the 31st meeting of the two teams in a long grid rivalry.

Four out-of-state officials have been assigned the task of handling the game which Coach Roy Lester of Allegany calls one of the toughest on his Campers' slate. They are Gordon Eismon, Bill Moore, Carl Campbell and Ken Rentch.

The game will get under way at 8 p. m.

Allegany came out of last Saturday's engagement with Bladensburg in good physical shape the Camper coaching staff indicated although several of the boys are nursing bruises and pulled muscles.

The team went through a light workout at Campobello yesterday and finished up with a blackboard drill.

To date the Campers have rolled past Beall, 20-0, and Bladensburg, 32-7.

Coach Mel Henry's Hubs, called one of Hagerstown's finest football teams in many years, have racked up two decision in three games, losing only to a strong William Penn High team of York, Pa., 12-7. The Hubs blasted Chambersburg, 39-19, in their opener and edged Westminster, 13-12, last week.

Sparking this year's Hagerstown team, which is a veteran outfit, are Billy Biggs and Charley Barnes, a pair of husky senior ends, halfback Dick Ringer, fullback Charley Lochbaum, and quarterback Dave Wachter.

Lester, who scouted the Hagerstown team in the Westminster fray, says the Hubs are heavy and fast and the Allegany coach calls Wachter "one of the best passers I've ever seen in this area."

Other games Friday will be:

Fort Hill at Martinsburg
Southern at Beall Jayvees
Ridgeley at Keyser (PVC)
Moorefield at Romney (PVC)
Franklin at West Va. Deaf (PVC)
Thomas at Pruntytown
Parsons at Belington
Charles Town at Berkeley Springs.

State Athletic Board Names District Officials For Year

AHS Principal Will Be Representative

Officials for the 1954-55 season were named at a meeting of District No. 1 Board of Control of the Maryland Public Secondary Schools Athletic Association recently.

Named District chairman was Donald Lee, coach at Hancock High School in Washington County and former athlete at Allegany High School here.

John Thomas, Mt. Savage High School mentor, will be the district secretary for the year while Raymond O. McCullough, principal of Allegany High School, was named district representative on the state board of control for a two-year period.

McCullough succeeds Herbert Logsdon, principal of Woodlawn Way High School of Hagerstown whose two-year term expired.

Homer C. Brooks, Frederick High School coach, has another year to serve on his two-year term.

The board decided again to hold the district No. 1 basketball tournament at Fort Hill High School, Friday and Saturday, March 4 and 5, 1955.

This will be the third straight year that the tournament will have been held in Cumberland.

The selection of Fort Hill for the 1955 tournament is just for the one year. When another school has ample facilities, floor size, dressing accommodations, sufficient space for spectators the site of the tournament can be changed, Arthur G. Ramey, who was named director of the tournament for the third straight year, stated.

Mack To Give Report On A's

Philadelphia Club Franchise Broke

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27 (AP) — The American League gets an official report on the status of its Philadelphia franchise tomorrow when Roy Mack, executive vice president of the Athletics, appears before his fellow clubowners in New York.

The only sure thing about the Athletics' situation is that the club treasury is bare and unless outside help is secured, someone, maybe the American League, will have to take over operation of the team.

It is believed that Roy will present two alternatives to the owners: (1) allow the club to be sold to Arnold Johnson, Chicago businessman who wants to transfer the team to Kansas City or (2) help him to raise the money necessary to carry on the operation.

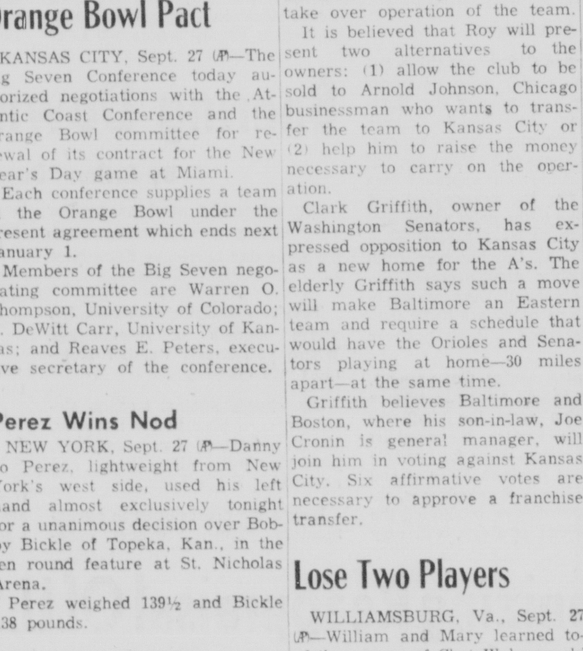

Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, has expressed opposition to Kansas City as a new home for the A's. The elderly Griffith says such a move will make Baltimore an Eastern team and require a schedule that would have the Orioles and Senators playing at home—30 miles apart—at the same time.

Griffith believes Baltimore and Boston, where his son-in-law, Joe Cronin is general manager, will join him in voting against Kansas City. Six affirmative votes are necessary to approve a franchise transfer.

CLARENCE LOWERY

Gridder's Jaw Frightens Foes

AP Newsfeatures

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — Morris Harvey College football players have plenty of reason for calling junior end Clarence Lowery "Iron Jaw."

The 190-pounder from Griffithsville, W. Va., can easily hold a 100-pound sack of potatoes in his teeth.

Said King: "Lowery is one of the strongest boys I've ever seen."

This may be an understatement, but Morris Harvey's foes will be wary of Lowery's every move on the gridiron this season.

There's no rule in the books about lifting up a player with your teeth.

Players Okay Pension Pact

Representatives Plan Other Moves

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Player representatives from 15 of the 16 major league clubs met today with J. Norman Lewis, their lawyer, and unanimously approved the revised pension plan, effective in 1957, by which 60 per cent of All-Star cash and World Series radio-TV money goes into the player pension fund.

The players also discussed other changes they want Commissioner Ford Frick to place before the majors at the December meetings. After the meeting of the 15 representatives, the two league delegates, Ralph Kiner of Chicago Cubs and Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees, met with their lawyer and Frick.

Among the subjects discussed were a $7,200 minimum salary, spring training expenses when the player does not live at the club hotel, insurance for ball players, winter league baseball, an earlier date than Feb. 1 for sending out contracts, and a guarantee against outright release between Dec. 1 and the end of spring training.

The new pension plan will become effective after the current World Series contract expires. The last series covered in the current deal is in 1956.

All clubs were represented except the Chicago White Sox.

Fort Hill JV's Open With 26-7 Win Over Keyser

Snyder And Hillegas Score Pair Touchdowns

Tom Snyder and Dalton Hillegas each tallied two touchdowns to lead the Fort Hill High football Jayvees to a 26-7 victory over Keyser's Junior Varsity yesterday at Fort Hill.

The Little Sentinels thus opened their 1954 season in convincing fashion as Wayne Boor made his debut as coach of the squad.

The two elevens battled on fairly even terms throughout the first three quarters with Fort Hill holding a 13-7 edge. But the Little Sentinels broke loose for two quick scores in the final period to ice the contest.

Hillegas also tallied twice for the Little Sentinels, his first six-pointer coming on a 30-yard romp and the latter on a 10-yard slash off tackle. Both Hillegas' counters came in the final quarter.

Snyder took scoring honors for the game by adding an extra point after the first touchdown, grabbing a pass from Powell in the end zone for the singleton.

PITTSBURGH — Dick Groat, fancy fielding and sharp hitting Pittsburgh Pirate shortstop now serving in the Army, says he has no intention of playing pro basketball early next year although he was a topflight court performer at Duke University.

Groat, who hit .284 in 1952 as he broke into the majors with the Pirates, is due to get out of the Army next Feb. 11. There had been rumors he would play basketball for the Fort Wayne (Ind.) team before reporting to the Pirate training camp.

"That's not the way it's going to be," Groat said. "I'll always love basketball but baseball is my life. So, feeling that, wouldn't I be a chump to report for spring training all tired out after a tough campaign running up and down those hardwood floors."

Charlie Dressen Named Manager Of Washington Nationals

Veteran Pilot Inks Two-Year $40,000 Pact

Returns After Year In Minors To Take Bucky Harris' Place

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Charlie Dressen was appointed manager of the Washington Senators today for a two-year term.

The announcement came as no surprise. It had been rumored for some time the 55-year-old veteran was going to replace Bucky Harris at the helm of the Senators.

No salary was announced, but it was estimated to be about $40,000 a year plus a bonus based on attendance.

Spent Year Away

Dressen's return to the big leagues came only one year after he relinquished the reins of the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers for a managerial post with Oakland of the Pacific Coast League.

The veteran Californian did right well with the Acorns. He took a seventh place club and raised it to third. He then won the PCL's playoff championship.

Dressen's parting with the Dodgers after winning two straight National League pennants was one of the major news stories and surprises of 1953.

After losing to the Yankees in the World Series for the second straight year, Dressen insisted on a long-term contract of two or three years. President Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers stood pat on a one-year offer. They couldn't agree and Dressen quit the club on Oct. 14.

Barely Lost Pennant

In his first year as manager with the Brooks in 1951, Dressen barely lost the pennant to the Giants on Bobby Thomson's "miracle" homer in the post-season playoffs.

Dressen did a lot of travelling in baseball before he assumed the managerial post with the Dodgers. An infielder, he played with Cincinnati and the New York Giants. He was signed in 1934 by Larry MacPhail to manage the Reds. After four successive finishes in the second division, Dressen returned to the minors to manage Nashville of the Southern Association, a club he led in 1932-34.

For the next 10 years, Dressen served as big league coach—first with the Dodgers and later with the New York Yankees. In 1950 he went to the coast as manager of Oakland.

Got What He Wanted

"I'm very happy I got what I asked for," Dressen said.

The appointment was announced by Calvin Griffith, vice-president of the Senators.

"I'd have taken one year," Dressen said. "There was something behind the whole thing in Brooklyn. I wanted more than one year to knock down the rumors by some of those radio commentators who were beefing when I was away."

He didn't elaborate.

DRESSEN SIGNS PACT—Charlie Dressen, left, former manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League, and Calvin Griffith, executive vice president of the Washington Nationals of the American League, get together as Dressen signs to manage Washington for the next two years. It is estimated Dressen will get $40,000 a year plus a bonus based on attendance.

Bob Feller Seeks First Series Win

Veteran Takes Plane Ahead To New York

CLEVELAND, Sept. 27 (AP)—Bob Feller flew out of Cleveland early today, hoping to finally pitch a winning game in the World Series.

The aging Cleveland fire ball chucker missed two earlier attempts and this series against the New York Giants might give him his last chance—if he gets it.

Feller, now 35 years old, is the oldest player in the American League in point of service.

He is the only man to pitch three no-hit games in the 20th century. He has struck out more men in one game and in a season than any other pitcher. But he has never won a World Series game.

In 1948, the last time the Tribe played in the main event, he lost his first start, 1-0, to the Boston Braves although he gave up only two hits. That loss has rankled him ever since. He failed to finish his second start in that series.

Whether he will get another chance depends largely on how the Tribe does in the opening games this time. Manager Al Lopez says that "if we get out in front and get a chance to rest the big three, I'm sure Bob will get a start.

"If we have to keep coming from behind, I'm not so sure."

Art Houtteman, the manager continued, also "deserves a starting shot. He and Feller both have done fine. But a short series isn't like a full season. You can't use everybody."

Feller flew on ahead of the rest of the Indians who leave Cleveland tonight on a six-car special train. He won 13 and lost three during the regular season.

The Indians plan to work out tomorrow noon at the Polo Grounds in New York.

The Indians pitching staff this season had a collective earned run average of 2.78, the lowest in league history. The previous low for the staff was the 2.91 set by the 1942 Yankees.

Two pitchers, Bob Lemon and Early Wynn, won more than 20 games and the other member of the big three, Mike Garcia, finished with 19. Lemon was 23-7, Wynn 23-11 and Garcia 19-8.

Eddie Mathews, Braves Infielder, Is Wed

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 27 (AP)—Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee Braves' slugging third baseman, and Virjean Lauby of Marshfield, Wis., were married today in a civil ceremony at the Milwaukee County Courthouse.

The ceremony was performed this afternoon by District Judge Harvey L. Neelen in the office of County Clerk Herman Kubiak, where the couple applied for a marriage license. Judge Neelen, who was waiting for them, had signed a dispensation waiving the five-day waiting period.

Bell Condemns 'Sleeper Play'

Used By Los Angeles In Baltimore Game

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27 (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League today labeled "unsportsmanlike" an 80-yard sleeper pass play that started off the 48-0 rout scored by the Los Angeles Rams over the Baltimore Colts yesterday.

Bell condemned the action and issued instructions to all referees and coaches that any similar incident in the future should be outlawed.

"But this thing should never have happened in the first place," Bell told a newsman. "No matter how many good rules we have, somebody also comes up with something that we have to correct."

The play in question came about this way: Ram halfback Skeet Quinlan stayed near his bench's sideline against a background of Los Angeles uniforms while his 10 teammates lined up in the middle of the field on their own 20-yard line. It was the first play after the Colts' opening kickoff went over the goal.

None of the Baltimore players and few of the 36,215 fans noticed Quinlan as he raced down the sidelines after the play got under way. He took a pass from Norman Van Brocklin on the 45 and scored an easy touchdown.

Bell said he would send out a memorandum providing for an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty against any team that sends out a flanker to within five yards of the sideline on which its bench is located. This will hold for the full length of the field, Bell said, to prevent a man from being hidden against the background of uniforms from teammates who have just left or are just preparing to enter the game.

Allegany Jayvees Top Romney 27-6 For Initial Win

Five Players Share In Camper Scoring

Allegany High's football Jayvees, bouncing back from last week's 6-0 loss to LaSalle, defeated Romney High's Jayvees yesterday at Campobello by a 27-6 score. It was the JV's team's first win this season.

Five players shared in the Little Campers scoring, all of which was done in the first half. Coach Jim Hosack cleared his bench during the final two quarters.

Don Ware, AHS fullback, circled end for 21 yards and the initial touchdown early in the first quarter. Later in the same stanza Quarterback Jim Deremer hit End Ed Robinson with an 18-yard pass for another counter.

In the second period Doug Walker raced 30 yards to chalk up the third Allegany touchdown and before the first half ended the Hosackmen had scored again when sub quarterback Mike Lease pitched to Gary Holler on a play that covered 45 yards.

Lonnie Jackson added the extra point after the first three scores. His fourth attempt was blocked.

Held scoreless until the final minute of play Romney's Jayvees finally put together a sustained march with Quarterback Hanna sneaking over from the four.

Allegany registered 11 first downs to Romney's three, completed four of five passes, two good for scores, and gathered 187 yards rushing the ball. The losers netted eight of 12 aerials and made 81 yards on the ground. Two Romney passes were intercepted by an alert Allegany defense. The lineups:

Single Wing Keeps Terps On Overtime

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 27 (AP)—Coach Jim Tatum of the University of Maryland, a T-formation man who has taught his football team to defend against the T-formation, has single-wing worries.

They kept the Terps, who are drilling for a West Coast encounter with UCLA Friday night, on the practice field 30 minutes overtime today. UCLA uses the single wing.

Tatum said, "We have geared our team against the T-formation making necessary the extra work against the single wing. Only one man on our team, Joe Horning, has ever played college ball against the single wing."

State Athletic Board Names District Officials For Year

AHS Principal Will Be Representative

Officials for the 1954-55 season were named at a meeting of District No. 1 Board of Control of the Maryland Public Secondary Schools Athletic Association recently.

Named District chairman was Donald Lee, coach at Hancock High School in Washington County and former athlete at Allegany High School here.

John Thomas, Mt. Savage High School mentor, will be the district secretary for the year while Raymond O. McCullough, principal of Allegany High School, was named district representative on the state board of control for a two-year period.

McCullough succeeds Herbert Logsdon, principal of Woodlawn Way High School of Hagerstown whose two-year term expired.

Homer C. Brooks, Frederick High School coach, has another year to serve on his two-year term.

The board decided again to hold the district No. 1 basketball tournament at Fort Hill High School, Friday and Saturday, March 4 and 5, 1955.

This will be the third straight year that the tournament will have been held in Cumberland.

The selection of Fort Hill for the 1955 tournament is just for the one year. When another school has ample facilities, floor size, dressing accommodations, sufficient space for spectators the site of the tournament can be changed, Arthur G. Ramey, who was named director of the tournament for the third straight year, stated.

Mack To Give Report On A's

Philadelphia Club Franchise Broke

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27 (AP) — The American League gets an official report on the status of its Philadelphia franchise tomorrow when Roy Mack, executive vice president of the Athletics, appears before his fellow clubowners in New York.

The only sure thing about the Athletics' situation is that the club treasury is bare and unless outside help is secured, someone, maybe the American League, will have to take over operation of the team.

It is believed that Roy will present two alternatives to the owners: (1) allow the club to be sold to Arnold Johnson, Chicago businessman who wants to transfer the team to Kansas City or (2) help him to raise the money necessary to carry on the operation.

Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, has expressed opposition to Kansas City as a new home for the A's. The elderly Griffith says such a move will make Baltimore an Eastern team and require a schedule that would have the Orioles and Senators playing at home—30 miles apart—at the same time.

Griffith believes Baltimore and Boston, where his son-in-law, Joe Cronin is general manager, will join him in voting against Kansas City. Six affirmative votes are necessary to approve a franchise transfer.

CLARENCE LOWERY

Gridder's Jaw Frightens Foes

AP Newsfeatures

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — Morris Harvey College football players have plenty of reason for calling junior end Clarence Lowery "Iron Jaw."

The 190-pounder from Griffithsville, W. Va., can easily hold a 100-pound sack of potatoes in his teeth.

Said King: "Lowery is one of the strongest boys I've ever seen."

This may be an understatement, but Morris Harvey's foes will be wary of Lowery's every move on the gridiron this season.

There's no rule in the books about lifting up a player with your teeth.

Representatives Plan Other Moves

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Player representatives from 15 of the 16 major league clubs met today with J. Norman Lewis, their lawyer, and unanimously approved the revised pension plan, effective in 1957, by which 60 per cent of All-Star cash and World Series radio-TV money goes into the player pension fund.

The players also discussed other changes they want Commissioner Ford Frick to place before the majors at the December meetings. After the meeting of the 15 representatives, the two league delegates, Ralph Kiner of Chicago Cubs and Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees, met with their lawyer and Frick.

Among the subjects discussed were a $7,200 minimum salary, spring training expenses when the player does not live at the club hotel, insurance for ball players, winter league baseball, an earlier date than Feb. 1 for sending out contracts, and a guarantee against outright release between Dec. 1 and the end of spring training.

The new pension plan will become effective after the current World Series contract expires. The last series covered in the current deal is in 1956.

All clubs were represented except the Chicago White Sox.

Radio Group Charges Loop With Monopoly

Liberty Broadcasting Anti-Trust Complaint Names Nine Teams

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27 (AP)—A $2,100,000 anti-trust suit will be filed against the National Football League and nine of its clubs in Federal District Court here tomorrow, NFL Commissioner Bert Bell disclosed here today.

Two Dallas, Tex., attorneys representing the trustee of the bankrupt Liberty Broadcasting System, Inc.,, walked into Bell's office today, gave him a copy of a complaint they said they planned to file tomorrow.

Bell said that attorneys "started to talk about making a settlement and I said 'We settle with no one.' "

Charges Monopoly

The contemplated suit charges that the NFL "has illegally adopted and maintained, throughout the United States of America . . . a system of authorizing the broadcasting of professional football games in such manner as to restrain trade unlawfully in broadcasting and to maintain a monopoly of the broadcasting" in the home territories of NFL clubs.

The suit names besides the NFL, the Chicago Bears, Chicago Cardinals, Cleveland Browns, Detroit Lions, Green Bay Packers, New York Giants, Philadelphia Eagles, Pittsburgh Steelers and Washington Redskins as defendants.

The suit specifically is being brought by William J. Rochelle Jr., trustee of the bankrupt radio firm, which has its principal office in Dallas.

The suit was prompted by a decision in Federal District Court here last November in which Judge Alan K. Grim outlawed restrictions on radio broadcasts of league games.

Liberty Went Bankrupt

Liberty went bankrupt in the middle of 1952, and in its bill of complaint, asked the following damages:

"For losses in operation and lost profits in 1949—$100,000; for losses in operation in 1950 and 1951—$300,000, and for losses in profits in 1950, 1951 and 1952—$300,000.

Under the federal Clayton Anti-Trust Act a plaintiff can sue for triple damages which in this instance would be $2,100,000.

Giants Acclaimed By Ticker Tape Parade In New York

Starting Pitchers For World Series Remain Uncertain

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP) — The giddy New York Giants rode up Broadway in a ticker tape shower today as the big town began to heat up for another World Series, opening Wednesday at the Polo Grounds.

Tickets were extra hard to get with the brokers selling only to friends of friends because of the limited capacity of the Giants' home park. Hotels were jammed and the first wave of visiting baseball men and writers crowded the lobbies.

Pitchers Uncertain

The two managers still refused to make it official that Sal Maglie (14-6), the Giants' veteran right-hander, will oppose Bob Lemon (23-7) of the Tribe in the opener.

Manager Leo Durocher is expected to name Maglie after the Giants' final workout tomorrow morning. He also will pick his starting lineup with left field the only debated position. The "hunch" players think Durocher may start Dusty Rhodes, a left handed hitter, instead of Monte Irvin, a right-hander.

With Durocher, nothing ever is certain. He opened with Dave Koslo against the Yankees in 1951 and might try to pull another one out of the hat. Those who expect him to pitch Maglie, point out the "Barber" can't come back again unless he has a three or four-day rest. Some thing he might name lefty Johnny Antonelli (21-7) on the theory the strong youngster then could be counted upon for three starts if it goes the seven-game maximum.

Lopez probably will go with Lemon if Maglie pitches, for Bob is a lefthanded hitter. If Durocher uses Antonelli, he might switch to Early Wynn (23-11), a switch hitter who could bat right against a southpaw.

The fact Lemon lost his last start and was wild while Wynn almost pitched a no-hitter Saturday might influence Lopez. He said in Cleveland he wouldn't decide until he knew about the Giant starter.

Cleveland also has one doubtful spot in its outfield, right field. Dave Philley, the switch-batting regular, has been in a bad slump. Lopez has been toying with the idea of two-platooning Dave Pope and Wally Westlake. The rest of the club is set although third baseman Al Rosen has trouble running. In recent games, Lopez has been using a pinch runner for the All-Star game hero.

Weather Outlook Good

For whatever it's worth, at this stage of the game, the weather man said "Wednesday looks like not too bad a day." The long range outlook is for partly cloudy skies with temperatures between 65 and 70.

After the first two games in New York, the series shifts to Cleveland for the next three games and then back to New York for the sixth and seventh until one team wins four in the best-of-seven competition. All games start at 1 p.m. (EST) with no day off for travel. In the event of postponement, the clubs will play the postponed game the following day and move the entire schedule back.

Grand Knights Hike Bowling Loop Lead

The league leading Grand Knights increased their margin in the Knights of Columbus Bowling League last night by taking three games from the Recorders.

On the other match the Chancellors won two from the Guards.

Hight for the evening was scored by Owen McGreevy of the Grand Knights with 218-551. Other leaders were Benny LaNeve of the Chancellors, 185-503; Jim Clark of the Guards, 471; and Jim Robertson of the Recorders, 396. Standings:

	W.	L.		W.	L.

$2,100,000 Suit To Be Filed Against Pro Football League

Liberty Broadcasting Anti-Trust Complaint Names Nine Teams

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27 (AP)—A $2,100,000 anti-trust suit will be filed against the National Football League and nine of its clubs in Federal District Court here tomorrow, NFL Commissioner Bert Bell disclosed here today.

Two Dallas, Tex., attorneys representing the trustee of the bankrupt Liberty Broadcasting System, Inc.,, walked into Bell's office today, gave him a copy of a complaint they said they planned to file tomorrow.

Bell said that attorneys "started to talk about making a settlement and I said 'We settle with no one.'"

Charges Monopoly

The contemplated suit charges that the NFL "has illegally adopted and maintained, throughout the United States of America . . . a system of authorizing the broadcasting of professional football games in such manner as to restrain trade unlawfully in broadcasting and to maintain a monopoly of the broadcasting" in the home territories of NFL clubs.

The suit names besides the NFL, the Chicago Bears, Chicago Cardinals, Cleveland Browns, Detroit Lions, Green Bay Packers, New York Giants, Philadelphia Eagles, Pittsburgh Steelers and Washington Redskins as defendants.

The suit specifically is being brought by William J. Rochelle Jr., trustee of the bankrupt radio firm, which has its principal office in Dallas.

The suit was prompted by a decision in Federal District Court here last November in which Judge Alan K. Grim outlawed restrictions on radio broadcasts of league games.

Liberty Went Bankrupt

Liberty went bankrupt in the middle of 1952, and in its bill of complaint, asked the following damages:

"For losses in operation and lost profits in 1949—$100,000; for losses in operation in 1950 and 1951—$300,000, and for losses in profits in 1950, 1951 and 1952—$300,000.

Under the federal Clayton Anti-Trust Act a plaintiff can sue for triple damages which in this instance would be $2,100,000.

Mays And Dark Lead Giants On Victory Parade

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP) — Leo Durocher, one of the brashest managers in baseball, modestly took a back seat today as the city acclaimed his National League champion New York Giants.

Leo was scheduled to ride the lead car up Broadway in a ticker tape parade for the team. But he declined. He pointed to Willie Mays and Alvin Dark and declared:

"Those two boys won the pennant for this ball club. They deserve to be up there leading the parade."

So Mays, the league batting champ, and Dark, the team captain, rode in the first car of the 17-car motorcade. Durocher rode in the eighth.

Referee Treated After Assault

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Sept. 27 (AP)—Leslie Amos, a 42-year-old British referee, was treated in a hospital today for injuries suffered last night when he was attacked by an unidentified spectator at a soccer game.

The fan knocked out some of Amos' teeth and bloodied his nose at the finish of a hectic game between the Penarol and Danubio teams. Danubio rooters jeered the referee when he ordered 11 additional minutes played because the game had been interrupted several times. During the extra period Penarol scored its winning goal.

Amos was hired by the Uruguayan Football Association two months ago.

Lopez probably will go with Lemon if Maglie pitches, for Bob is a lefthanded hitter. If Durocher uses Antonelli, he might switch to Early Wynn (23-11), a switch hitter who could bat right against a southpaw.

The fact Lemon lost his last start and was wild while Wynn almost pitched a no-hitter Saturday might influence Lopez. He said in Cleveland he wouldn't decide until he knew about the Giant starter.

Cleveland also has one doubtful spot in its outfield, right field. Dave Philley, the switch-batting regular, has been in a bad slump. Lopez has been toying with the idea of two-platooning Dave Pope and Wally Westlake. The rest of the club is set although third baseman Al Rosen has trouble running. In recent games, Lopez has been using a pinch runner for the All-Star game hero.

Weather Outlook Good

For whatever it's worth, at this stage of the game, the weather man said "Wednesday looks like not too bad a day." The long range outlook is for partly cloudy skies with temperatures between 65 and 70.

After the first two games in New York, the series shifts to Cleveland for the next three games and then back to New York for the sixth and seventh until one team wins four in the best-of-seven competition. All games start at 1 p.m. (EST) with no day off for travel. In the event of postponement, the clubs will play the postponed game the following day and move the entire schedule back.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 27 (INS) — One of the most talked of books last year was Jay Richard Kennedy's "Prince Bart," with a background of Hollywood featuring an unhappy actor who really went the wrong way. There was much speculation over the identity of the mysterious movie star — some thought it was Jack Gilbert—others guessed Wallie Reid.

Now Jack Warner has bought the film rights and will make it next spring. He's paging Marlon Brando, who did "Streetcar Named Desire" for him, in the hope that the elusive Brando will be intrigued enough by the character to accept the role.

I'd forgotten that Liberace ever made a motion picture until he told me that he had appeared with Shelley Winters in 1949 in "South Sea Sinner."

He's come a long way since that day, and now he's talking terms with Warner Brothers about a screenplay which he likes very much. "Let's wait until the contract is signed—I'm superstitious," he said when I asked the title.

Portugal, which up to now hasn't figured very much in motion picture production, is about to leap in with both feet. Albert Amateau, father of Rodney Amateau, is responsible for the merging of the famed Tobis and Lisbon Studios in that country. He has a ten year franchise and the money to go ahead with ten and later more pictures.

Lisbon would be an entirely new location for film making. A few of the attractions scheduled are: "Bullfight" for MCA; "Shark O'Rourke," the TV series starring Jess Barker: "Dark Wedding" for Les Hafner and Herb Kline; "Scimitar" for Monarch Productions, and others.

Bob Hope's introduction of Harry Richman at the Moulin Rouge proved what a really good guy that Hope is. He worked till the last minute on his picture then rushed to join Dolores and a party of friends to introduce his pal.

He and Eddie Cantor did a little stint on TV with Harry just to show him all Richman's old friends are with him.

Harry sang for his opening song "Sunny Side of the Street" and Jimmy McHugh, who was with the Cantors, took a bow. Harry did an imitation of Eddie and very good. There's no one who has more charm than that Harry Richman and he's worked very hard on this comeback and it shows it.

Here's another Junior Crosby coming up for competition to Bing and Bob. Fifteen year old Cathey, who has appeared on her father's, Bob Crosby's, show, and who made her debut with Uncle Bing, will have her own show next season.

The reason Cathy can't accept the job now is that she's a junior at Westlake School for Girls, and her father wants her to finish her schooling. The same thing is happening to Gary Crosby, Bing's boy, who has to go back to school.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Jean Peters will be close to her bridegroom, Stuart Cramer, when she makes location scenes for "A Man Called Peter" in Atlanta and in Washington. She and Richard Todd, accompanied by Johnny Campbell, left over the weekend.

TV critics as well as writers of drama are pouring in from all over the country for the Chrysler party on Thursday. Most of them came early to be able to attend the "A Star Is Born" premiere.

Audrey Hepburn bought a raft of shoes when she was in Montecatini. She was fitted by cobbler Salvator Ferragamo of Florence, from whom the Queen of England buys many of her shoes.

Met Tyrone Power and Linda Christian at the party Waldo gave honoring Nina Alderton. Linda was wearing one of those new style coats and on her it was very becoming.

Columnist Bob Considine has written a TV show with himself as the central figure in which he introduces personalities in politics, the theater, in fact in every walk of life and he's the boy who can do it.

Mrs. Leland Hayward planed out for Honolulu to be with Leland, producer of "Mr. Roberts." His health has not been the best.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

German "Sister City" To Hagerstown Opens Recovery Exhibition

WESEL, Germany, Sept. 27 (AP)—This West German town, blasted by Allied bombers during World War II, has opened a recovery exhibition which will go next month to its "sister city" in the United States, Hagerstown, Md.

The exhibition depicts how the town's 20,000 inhabitants brought recovery out of the rubble.

The exhibition leaves Hamburg Oct. 1, accompanied by Mayor Helmut Berkel.

Berkel said he planned to stop in New York and tell Mayor Robert F. Wagner Jr., that Wesel is building a monument to Peter Minuit, former Wesel resident who is credited with being one of the founders of New York.

Your three-a-day must include basic nutritional requirements, for health and vitality.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

It has been said that there are two kinds of people: those who eat to live, and those who live to eat. Rather like Jack Sprat and his wife! Somewhere between the Sprat family extremes of eating only the fat or the lean is the balanced diet that includes all of the nutritional requirements for glowing good health.

Check your menus of yesterday and the day before to see how close you come to these recommended portions for adults and adolescents of normal weight. (If you've a weight problem—too much or too little—send for a copy of "Your Beauty Diet!" to help you adapt the requirements to your needs. See box below.)

Every Day

Bread and cereals: two portions of whole grain, or those made with enriched flour.

Dairy products: one pint of milk for each adult, one quart for each child; one pat of butter or margarine at each meal; limited amount of fats and oils in cooking and in dressings; optional—yogurt, buttermilk, cheese.

Eggs: one a day, or at least three a week.

Fruits: one portion of juice (such as orange, grapefruit, tangerine); one portion of fresh, stewed, or canned fruit (or tomato or tomato juice).

Vegetables: one portion of green leafy or yellow vegetable; one portion of lettuce or other raw vegetable.

Besides these, you need a daily serving of meat, fish or poultry in a balanced diet. It is balance, more than how much you eat or how little you eat, that makes you look and feel like a million.

Menu Planning

If you're the one who plans the family menu, schedule a whole week's meals in advance and be sure to include the daily requirements listed above. If you frequently eat at lunch counters and in restaurants, check on yourself at the end of each day until you just naturally order what's best for you.

It's not difficult to satisfy nutritional needs with breakfast-lunch-dinner menus seven days out of seven, and still hit the 2500 calorie norm calculated to hold the average woman's weight steady. You'll find helpful suggestions in "Your Beauty Diet!"—the booklet I mentioned earlier.

YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem — whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! For the booklet, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin to help cover cost, plus stamped self-addressed envelope.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 27 (INS) — One of the most talked of books last year was Jay Richard Kennedy's "Prince Bart," with a background of Hollywood featuring an unhappy actor who really went the wrong way. There was much speculation over the identity of the mysterious movie star — some thought it was Jack Gilbert—others guessed Wallie Reid.

Now Jack Warner has bought the film rights and will make it next spring. He's paging Marlon Brando, who did "Streetcar Named Desire" for him, in the hope that the elusive Brando will be intrigued enough by the character to accept the role.

I'd forgotten that Liberace ever made a motion picture until he told me that he had appeared with Shelley Winters in 1949 in "South Sea Sinner."

He's come a long way since that day, and now he's talking terms with Warner Brothers about a screenplay which he likes very much. "Let's wait until the contract is signed—I'm superstitious," he said when I asked the title.

Portugal, which up to now hasn't figured very much in motion picture production, is about to leap in with both feet. Albert Amateau, father of Rodney Amateau, is responsible for the merging of the famed Tobis and Lisbon Studios in that country. He has a ten year franchise and the money to go ahead with ten and later more pictures.

Lisbon would be an entirely new location for film making. A few of the attractions scheduled are: "Bullfight" for MCA; "Shark O'Rourke," the TV series starring Jess Barker: "Dark Wedding" for Les Hafner and Herb Kline; "Scimitar" for Monarch Productions, and others.

Bob Hope's introduction of Harry Richman at the Moulin Rouge proved what a really good guy that Hope is. He worked till the last minute on his picture then rushed to join Dolores and a party of friends to introduce his pal.

He and Eddie Cantor did a little stint on TV with Harry just to show him all Richman's old friends are with him.

Harry sang for his opening song "Sunny Side of the Street" and Jimmy McHugh, who was with the Cantors, took a bow. Harry did an imitation of Eddie and very good. There's no one who has more charm than that Harry Richman and he's worked very hard on this comeback and it shows it.

Here's another Junior Crosby coming up for competition to Bing and Bob. Fifteen year old Cathey, who has appeared on her father's, Bob Crosby's, show, and who made her debut with Uncle Bing, will have her own show next season.

The reason Cathy can't accept the job now is that she's a junior at Westlake School for Girls, and her father wants her to finish her schooling. The same thing is happening to Gary Crosby, Bing's boy, who has to go back to school.

The way it looks, the Crosbys will go on and on — a lot of talent for one family.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Jean Peters will be close to her bridegroom, Stuart Cramer, when she makes location scenes for "A Man Called Peter" in Atlanta and in Washington. She and Richard Todd, accompanied by Johnny Campbell, left over the weekend.

TV critics as well as writers of drama are pouring in from all over the country for the Chrysler party on Thursday. Most of them came early to be able to attend the "A Star Is Born" premiere.

Audrey Hepburn bought a raft of shoes when she was in Montecatini. She was fitted by cobbler Salvator Ferragamo of Florence, from whom the Queen of England buys many of her shoes.

Met Tyrone Power and Linda Christian at the party Waldo gave honoring Nina Alderton. Linda was wearing one of those new style coats and on her it was very becoming.

Columnist Bob Considine has written a TV show with himself as the central figure in which he introduces personalities in politics, the theater, in fact in every walk of life and he's the boy who can do it.

Mrs. Leland Hayward planed out for Honolulu to be with Leland, producer of "Mr. Roberts." His health has not been the best.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

German "Sister City" To Hagerstown Opens Recovery Exhibition

WESEL, Germany, Sept. 27 (AP)—This West German town, blasted by Allied bombers during World War II, has opened a recovery exhibition which will go next month to its "sister city" in the United States, Hagerstown, Md.

The exhibition depicts how the town's 20,000 inhabitants brought recovery out of the rubble.

Hagerstown (pop. 36,260) was picked as a sister city in 1951 because of similarities in size and makeup.

The exhibition leaves Hamburg Oct. 1, accompanied by Mayor Helmut Berkel.

Berkel said he planned to stop in New York and tell Mayor Robert F. Wagner Jr., that Wesel is building a monument to Peter Minuit, former Wesel resident who is credited with being one of the founders of New York.

Your three-a-day must include basic nutritional requirements, for health and vitality.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

It has been said that there are two kinds of people: those who eat to live, and those who live to eat. Rather like Jack Sprat and his wife! Somewhere between the Sprat family extremes of eating only the fat or the lean is the balanced diet that includes all of the nutritional requirements for glowing good health.

Check your menus of yesterday and the day before to see how close you come to these recommended portions for adults and adolescents of normal weight. (If you've a weight problem—too much or too little—send for a copy of "Your Beauty Diet!" to help you adapt the requirements to your needs. See box below.)

Every Day

Bread and cereals: two portions of whole grain, or those made with enriched flour.

Dairy products: one pint of milk for each adult, one quart for each child; one pat of butter or margarine at each meal; limited amount of fats and oils in cooking and in dressings; optional—yogurt, buttermilk, cheese.

Eggs: one a day, or at least three a week.

Fruits: one portion of juice (such as orange, grapefruit, tangerine); one portion of fresh, stewed, or canned fruit (or tomato or tomato juice).

Starches: one potato, portion of rice, macaroni, etc. or one portion of corn, lima beans, etc.

Sweets: desserts in limited amounts.

Vegetables: one portion of green leafy or yellow vegetable; one portion of lettuce or other raw vegetable.

Besides these, you need a daily serving of meat, fish or poultry in a balanced diet. It is balance, more than how much you eat or how little you eat, that makes you look and feel like a million.

Menu Planning

If you're the one who plans the family menu, schedule a whole week's meals in advance and be sure to include the daily requirements listed above. If you frequently eat at lunch counters and in restaurants, check on yourself at the end of each day until you just naturally order what's best for you.

It's not difficult to satisfy nutritional needs with breakfast-lunch-dinner menus seven days out of seven, and still hit the 2500 calorie norm calculated to hold the average woman's weight steady. You'll find helpful suggestions in "Your Beauty Diet!"—the booklet I mentioned earlier.

YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem — whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! For the booklet, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin to help cover cost, plus stamped self-addressed envelope.

Tomorrow—Beauty from within.

Col. Robins, Confidante Of Presidents, Dies

BROOKSVILLE, Fla., Sept. 27 (AP)—Col. Raymond Robins, a confidante of presidents and an adventurer who struck it rich in the Yukon, died yesterday. He was 81.

He was a close friend of President Theodore Roosevelt, an adviser to former President Herbert Hoover and urged President Franklin D. Roosevelt to recognize Soviet Russia in 1933.

In his busy life he was active in politics. He campaigned for William Jennings Bryan and later was active in the Progressive or Bull Moose party. He ran for the U. S. Senate in Illinois on the Progressive party ticket.

Meeting Postponed

FROSTBURG—The Grahamtown Street Light Committee has announced that the meeting of all residents of that community scheduled to be held Monday, October 4, in Gospel Hall, Grahamtown, has been postponed until Friday, October 15 at 7:30 p. m. The change was made due to church meetings to be held that week at the hall.

AFL Plans To Recruit 'White Collar' Workers

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27 (AP)—The leaders of the American Federation of Labor yesterday charted a new campaign to unionize "white collar" workers.

The annual AFL convention has adopted a resolution pledging redoubled efforts to unionize millions of office workers and clerks as a way of building up AFL strength.

Several other resolutions promised new organizing drives in all sections of industry in this country, Canada, Puerto Rico and Hawaii.

MOST DEADLY WEAPON

ONE OF the most deadly weapons in the arsenal of a skilled bidder is the forcing pass. It differs from ordinary passes in one most important respect. It is a pass made at a time when your partner absolutely knows you could have made a bid soundly, because of something you already had done. The meaning it conveys is that you would rather put up to him the question of whether your side should bid again or double the opponent's bid which you had passed, assuring him that whichever he decides will be okeh to you.

	♠ A Q 5 4 ♥ Q 10 7 2 ♦ 9 6 ♣ J 10 5
♠ 6 3 ♥ K J ♦ Q 10 ♣ K Q 8 7 6 4 3	N W E S	♠ 9 7 ♥ A 9 6 4 3 ♦ K 8 7 3 2 ♣ 2
	♠ K J 10 8 2 ♥ 8 5 ♦ A J 5 4 ♣ A 9

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
2 ♣	2 ♠	3 ♥	Pass
Pass	Dbl.	4 ♦	Dbl.
4 ♥	Dbl.

The crucial spot in that bidding was South's pass of East's 3-Heart bid on the second round. South had heard North make his free bid raise of 2-Spades, so was amply prepared to bid spades again himself if East had not put in the heart call. North knew South could bid then, but nevertheless passed. Why? Simply because South didn't know whether North's hand was mainly distributional in nature for his spade support, or whether he had some defensive strength against hearts.

North liked the sound of the 3-Hearts, against which he was modestly loaded, so doubled the bid.

Now East made the natural human mistake of getting panicky, as he took himself out into 4-Diamonds, hoping that would fit his partner's hand better than the hearts. But it suited South instead, and drew a quick double from him. West then naturally shifted from East's second suit into the first, which he of course knew would surely be doubled by North, who had doubled that suit at a lower level. It turned out that East, by getting frightened and bidding the diamonds, had only made a bad situation worse.

The 4-Hearts doubled received a thrashing of four tricks, giving North-South 700 points. Even a set of the 3-Hearts doubled would have produced a three-trick set worth 500 points, more than the value of a game if the pair had bid and been able to make one.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

After South's 1-Spade, North's 2-Diamonds, South's 2-No Trumps and North's 3-Clubs, what should be the next bids by the two partners?

MOST DEADLY WEAPON

ONE OF the most deadly weapons in the arsenal of a skilled bidder is the forcing pass. It differs from ordinary passes in one most important respect. It is a pass made at a time when your partner absolutely knows you could have made a bid soundly, because of something you already had done. The meaning it conveys is that you would rather put up to him the question of whether your side should bid again or double the opponent's bid which you had passed, assuring him that whichever he decides will be okeh to you.

	♠ A Q 5 4 ♥ Q 10 7 2 ♦ 9 6 ♣ J 10 5
♠ 6 3 ♥ K J ♦ Q 10 ♣ K Q 8 7 6 4 3	N W E S	♠ 9 7 ♥ A 9 6 4 3 ♦ K 8 7 3 2 ♣ 2
	♠ K J 10 8 2 ♥ 8 5 ♦ A J 5 4 ♣ A 9

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
2 ♣	2 ♠	3 ♥	Pass
Pass	Dbl.	4 ♦	Dbl.
4 ♥	Dbl.

The crucial spot in that bidding was South's pass of East's 3-Heart bid on the second round. South had heard North make his free bid raise of 2-Spades, so was amply prepared to bid spades again himself if East had not put in the heart call. North knew South could bid then, but nevertheless passed. Why? Simply because South didn't know whether North's hand was mainly distributional in nature for his spade support, or whether he had some defensive strength against hearts.

North liked the sound of the 3-Hearts, against which he was modestly loaded, so doubled the bid.

Now East made the natural human mistake of getting panicky, as he took himself out into 4-Diamonds, hoping that would fit his partner's hand better than the hearts. But it suited South instead, and drew a quick double from him. West then naturally shifted from East's second suit into the first, which he of course knew would surely be doubled by North, who had doubled that suit at a lower level. It turned out that East, by getting frightened and bidding the diamonds, had only made a bad situation worse.

The 4-Hearts doubled received a thrashing of four tricks, giving North-South 700 points. Even a set of the 3-Hearts doubled would have produced a three-trick set worth 500 points, more than the value of a game if the pair had bid and been able to make one.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 9 6 4 ♥ 7 ♦ A Q 6 5 3 ♣ A 10 4 2
♠ 10 3 ♥ K Q 10 5 4 ♦ J 9 8 2 ♣ 8 5	N W E S	♠ Q J 8 ♥ J 8 6 3 ♦ 10 ♣ Q J 9 7 6
	♠ A K 7 5 2 ♥ A 9 2 ♦ K 7 4 ♣ K 3

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

After South's 1-Spade, North's 2-Diamonds, South's 2-No Trumps and North's 3-Clubs, what should be the next bids by the two partners?

Market Session Irregular, Closes Lower On Balance

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP) — The Stock Market backed and filled through an irregular session today and eventually closed lower on balance.

Aircrafts and motors were firm throughout with the oils also showing good gains in many cases. Railroads started out rather well and then sagged in the end. Steels also were lower together with the radio-televisions, distillers, and many chemicals.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks clearly showed the irregular effect of price movements.

The average lost 10 cents with the industrial component up 20 cents at a new high of $188.60 while the railroads were off 50 cents and the utilities remained unchanged.

Only two of the most active issues declined—U. S. Steel off ¼ at 56⅝ in seventh place and New York Central off ½ at 19¾ in ninth place.

Some aircraft gains were outstanding — Bell Aircraft up 2⅛, boeing 2¼, Douglas Aircraft 2⅛, and Sperry 1⅛.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—Favorable weather for harvesting the new soybean crop in the Midwest knocked down prices of that cereal sharply on the Board of Trade today.

Market Session Irregular, Closes Lower On Balance

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP) — The Stock Market backed and filled through an irregular session today and eventually closed lower on balance.

Aircrafts and motors were firm throughout with the oils also showing good gains in many cases. Railroads started out rather well and then sagged in the end. Steels also were lower together with the radio-televisions, distillers, and many chemicals.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks clearly showed the irregular effect of price movements.

The average lost 10 cents with the industrial component up 20 cents at a new high of $188.60 while the railroads were off 50 cents and the utilities remained unchanged.

Only two of the most active issues declined—U. S. Steel off ¼ at 56⅜ in seventh place and New York Central off ½ at 19¾ in ninth place.

Some aircraft gains were outstanding — Bell Aircraft up 2⅛, boeing 2¼, Douglas Aircraft 2⅛, and Sperry 1⅛.

Chicago Board Of Trade

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—Favorable weather for harvesting the new soybean crop in the Midwest knocked down prices of that cereal sharply on the Board of Trade today.

Fire In LaVale Destroys Truck And Garage

Three Companies Respond To Alarm

A panel truck, garage, and other equipment, owned by James A. Kuhlman, of Forest Glen, LaVale, were destroyed by fire yesterday evening in a three-alarm blaze.

Volunteer firemen from LaVale, Corriganville and Cresaptown fought the stubborn blaze which threatened the pigeon loft of a next door neighbor, C. A. Smith.

Candy Dealer

Full extent of damages was not estimated last night by Kuhlman. The fire occurred about 7:20 p. m. just about 45 minutes after Kuhlman, a wholesale candy dealer, had put his truck in the garage.

The blaze was discovered by neighbors who reside across the highway Route 40 and LaVale firemen were notified. Shortly afterward, the other two fire companies reported to the scene.

The firemen used water from a hydrant located at the intersection of Forest Glen and the National Highway, as well as their booster pumps. They also trained water on the nearby pigeon loft owned by Smith, which houses approximately 400 birds.

Kuhlman was reported to have gone to the Smith residence to watch a television show just before the fire started. Firemen said that there were no electrical connections in the gutted building and apparently the blaze resulted from a short circuit in the panel truck.

Much Headway

The fire had made considerable headway before firemen arrived and a couple of small explosions, apparently caused by gasoline, were reported. Aside from the loss of the truck, tools and other equipment were destroyed.

Kuhlman told firemen that he also lost a power lawn mower which had been outside all summer and was put in the garage for storage on Sunday.

Cromwell C. Zembower of the LaVale Fire Department said the blaze caused considerable excitement in the area and traffic was tied up for some time.

The blaze occurred about a block west of the substation of the Maryland State Police who aided in directing traffic.

Zembower said the residences of Kuhlman and Smith were approximately 100 feet from the blazing building. The truck according to Kuhlman was covered by insurance.

He is a wholesale dealer and sells candy and other notions in LaVale and the Cumberland area.

Blaze Guts LaVale Garage

Volunteer firemen are shown above probing through the smoking ruins of a garage destroyed in a three alarm blaze yesterday evening on the property of James A. Kuhlman, located at Forest Glen. His panel truck, used in a wholesale business, and other equipment were also destroyed. Three companies, LaVale, Corriganville and Cresaptown, responded to the alarm which was sounded about 7:20 p. m. Firemen kept the blaze from spreading to other nearby buildings. About 400 pigeons also were near.

Red Feather Groups Plan Meetings Today

Women To Prepare For Kick-Off Tea

Three important meetings have been scheduled today by leaders of the Cumberland Community Chest in preparation for the general opening of the 1954-55 Red Feather campaign next Tuesday.

Classified company chairmen will meet at 12:15 p. m. in Central YMCA with Robert E. Barnard, chairman of the Classified Division, presiding.

Barnard said management is being asked to share in the $100,-999.23 fund campaign by appointing a company chairman to head each firm's solicitation.

He said over 200 firms are being contacted by Classified Division workers in the Red Feather drive which William R. Carscaden pointed out "reduces the number of separate appeals, effecting a tremendous saving in campaign costs and manpower hours."

Barnard will explain the "Ten Step Company Plan" which is being recommended in the solicitation of firms.

Women Will Meet

Residential Division zone leaders and captains will meet at the YMCA at 1:30 p. m., with Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, Residential chairman in charge.

Instructions will be given in preparation for the kick-off tea which wil be held Thursday at 2 p. m. in Centre Street Methodist Church.

Mrs. Roeder said Residential Section leaders will make an intensive effort to provide each worker with basic information concerning the Chest and the work of its eight Red Feather agencies.

She said she hopes each homemaker will contribute generously to the Chest this year to support the Chest agencies and the United Defense Fund which provides services for their sons or daughters who served or will serve in the Armed Forces.

Contractors To Meet

An important contractors meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the Chest headquarters, 111 Union Street, with Edgar D. Vandegrift, co-chairman of the Advance Gifts division, in charge.

Vandegrift has invited all contractors of the area to attend and hear plans for regular payroll deductions from workers as their part in the Red Feather work.

The scale of giving which has been recommended by the Building and Construction Trades Council headed by George W. Lucas, is 10 cents a week for workers who make less than $2 an hour, and 20 cents a week for those who make $2 or more.

He has appeared in the movies and also has quite a bit of stage experience to his credit. "The 13 Clocks," isn't a parable, a fairy story or a poem, but rather a mixture of all three, and a popular work of James Thurber.

City To Change Walk Lights In Business Area

Third Phase To Be For Pedestrians

Pedestrians will be allowed to scramble across intersections on Baltimore Street from any angle when the Police Department changes its traffic lights this week.

The plan, announced yesterday by Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan, will allow pedestrians to walk on each third phase of the traffic light change, with all vehicular traffic stopped.

The present system of moving pedestrian traffic on green lights with the flow of vehicles was instituted here about 15 months ago to replace a system under which pedestrians were allowed to cross after each traffic change.

The new plan has been popularized as the "Barnes Dance," since its was advocated by the traffic expert who for months has been working to solve Baltimore's traffic problems.

Cities Adopt Plan

A number of larger cities are adopting the undignified but efficient scramble system on their busy intersections.

In a statement before the Mayor and Council, Keegan said the new system will allow pedestrians to walk on every third phase of the traffic light.

When the walk light is on, all other lights will be red and pedestrians will be allowed to cross from any angle, Keegan stated.

"As it is now," the commissioner continued, "and aside from the dangerous angle, the pedestrian walking with traffic slows it up rather than moving it quickly."

Keegan added that, in addition to speeding up traffic, the new pedestrian walk regulations will add greatly to safety.

Police Get Complaints

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn pointed out that the new walk light system will be carried out on a 15-second basis.

According to Flynn, the present "Walk" and "Don't Walk" neon lights will continue to function.

Flynn said the present system for pedestrians has resulted in a number of complaints to police officials.

"On one occasion," he added, "I saw two women struck by cars at an intersection."

Chief Flynn said the system in effect slows traffic because pedestrians straggle across the street, taking "their good old time and further delaying vehicular movement."

New Law Provides Farmers Better Program For Loans

Public Law 597, adopted by the 83rd Congress, makes available to farmers a new type of credit for financing soil conservation measures and extends the water facility loan program to the entire nation, according to B. Beeson Snyder, Farmers Home Administration supervisor for Garrett and Allegany counties.

Previously, water facility loans, which are used by farmers to develop irrigation systems and farmstead water supplies, were limited to the 17 Western states. The law also makes it possible for the first time for the Government to insure soil conservation and water facility loans advanced by private lenders.

Much progress has been made in conserving the soil and water resources of the nation. However, on the 400 million acres of cropland, Soil Conservation Service surveys indicate erosion is still proceeding at a serious rate on about 200 million acres, half the total.

Despite temporary surpluses, the demands upon agriculture will grow heavier in the years to come. By 1975 the nation likely will need the production equivalent of an additional 115 million acres of improved cropland to keep pace with the demands of a growing population.

To meet rising demands, U. S. farmers will have to depend mainly upon increasing the per acre yields on crop and pastureland and on range and forest lands.

A well-planned program for resource conservation often comprises practices requiring considerable capital investment or temporary economic sacrifices. Public and private credit geared to the repayment potentials of conservation practices will materially aid many farms. Public Law 597, according to Snyder, will provide a part of the needed capital.

Loan services authorized by Public Law 597 will be made available through the Farmers' Home Administration, a United States Department of Agriculture agency. This organization has more than 1,500 offices serving all agricultural counties. The new program will be launched within a matter of weeks and can be handled with little additional administrative expense.

The existence and availability of FHA county committees also helps assure a well-run program, Snyder says. The committees are composed of local men who have a proven knowledge of local agricultural conditions and are willing to make their services available to benefit their communities.

The soil and water conservation program will not duplicate any existing services. It will supplement but will not be a substitute for private and cooperative credit. Applicants who need engineering services in the development and execution of the improvements carried out with the loans will obtain these services from other agencies or private sources. In addition, loans will be made only for the types of soil and water conservation practices recommended by the Soil Conservation Service, the Extension Service and other agricultural agencies.

County FHA committeemen for Allegany are James H. Morgan, Frostburg; Raymond Slider, Oldtown, and Marshall Porter, Frostburg. In Garrett County they are Lenwood F. Bittinger, Mt. Lake Park; Hubert A. Friend, Friendsville, and Paul W. Welch, Oakland.

Full particulars concerning this new type of credit and the rest of the FHA program may be obtained from a committeeman or from Snyder, Garrett National Bank Building, Oakland. He also is in the office of Allegany County Agent Joseph M. Steger from 2 until 4 p. m. each Monday.

Compensation Law Revisions To Be Discussed

Washington County Senator Urges Step

HAGERSTOWN, Sept. 27 (AP) — A state senator said today vital changes in Maryland's workmen's compensation law will be up for discussion when the Legislative Council meets Oct. 4.

Sen. D. K. McLaughlin (R-Washington County) said letters have gone out requesting the appearance at the meeting of Charles S. Jackson, state insurance commissioner, and Dr. Carl N. Everstein, director of the Department of Legislative Reference.

McLaughlin said the Council is studying a bill to provide substantial changes in the compensation law.

Proposed, he said, is the elimination of private insurance firms from the compensation program and the creation of state compensation fund.

McLaughlin said the aim is to reduce premiums and increase benefits.

The Washington County senator, a member of the Council's judiciary committee, said: "The Council is presently studying a bill to provide for substantial changes in our compensation law as well as the creation of a state compensation fund to take care of all such losses. The idea of such a fund is that the saving in premiums can result in payment of increased benefits to claimants."

McLaughlin called for a thorough study of the rates employers have to pay. They went up 4.4 percent Sept. 1st.

Democrat Chief Says Party Will Win House Seats

Mitchell Predicts Md. Gain Of Three

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—National Democratic Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell forecast today his party would recapture "at least three" Maryland seats in Congress next November.

Making a long-delayed visit here for a luncheon attended by leaders of virtually every element of the Maryland Democratic party, Mitchell spoke of a "Democratic tide running through this country."

Nearly 100 party leaders from Baltimore and surrounding counties—representing labor and business, professional politicians and women auxiliaries, Negro and white—came to hear Mitchell at a luncheon called by H. C. Byrd, Democratic candidate for governor. Backers of George P. Mahoney, Byrd's opponent in the bitter primary, were there in force.

Pointing to the recent Democratic victory in the Maine gubernatorial election, Mitchell said here was proof the party could regain majorities in the House and Senate if its candidates "talk the issues and the facts."

"They didn't back away from anything," he said of the Maine Democratic candidates.

"The significance of that election was not only that (Edmund S.) Muskie became governor," said Mitchell. "The significance of that election was that even the popular Republican incumbents who did win re-election lost 12-13 percent of their previous vote."

After the luncheon spokesmen at Byrd headquarters indicated Muskie might be a guest at $100-a-plate dinner and rally Oct. 18 in Baltimore.

Mitchell said the Democratic party in Maryland had "hit bottom" in the last two elections, when the Republicans won four of seven Congressional seats, both Senate seats and the governorship.

"But it's on its way up now," he declared.

The national party chairman hit hard on what has become a favorite theme of the Democrats in this campaign: That the working man has suffered economically under the Republicans and Democrats should have little trouble convincing him they are his best friends.

Supporters of State Sen. Edward Turner, seeking to oust Republican Rep. Edward T. Miller in the Eastern Shore's First Congressional District, took heart from this. The Shore's big broiler growing industry has suffered heavily in recent months.

Besides Turner, other congressional candidates at the luncheon included Reps. Samuel N. Friedel, George H. Fallon, and Edward A. Garmatz, seeking re-election from their all-Baltimore districts; and Del. Richard E. Lankford, Fifth District and former Rep. William P. Bolton, of the Second District. Edward J. Ryan, campaigning for the Sixth District seat, was absent.

B&O Income Continues Downward

Earnings Half Of Last Year

The net income of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, for the month of August, is reflected in its regular report, as $1,231,030. Operating revenue for the period was $32,792,575.

The August income brings the accumulated net income of the company to $9,616,020, for the first eight months of this year.

Railroad operating revenues, as well as net income, continue to run well below the levels of 1953. August net income is down $1,516,112, compared with August last year. The accumulated net is $8, 906,069 below the first eight months of 1953. Actually, the railroad, in August, earned less than half as much as it did in August a year ago, and for all of 1954, has been earning only about 55 per cent as much as in 1953.

Operating revenues are off $59,-281,132 for the period from January 1 to August 31. Operating revenues for the period total $253,030,-859.

Operating expenses are shown at $206,910,644 for eight months compared to $245,605,276 for the same period of 1953. The decrease in operation costs amounts to $38,-694,632, and is made possible by continued furloughs and other curtailments.

The railroad has paid $7,294,213 in income and other taxes for this eight months period, compared to $17,575,897 for the same period in 1953. This is a decrease of over ten million dollars paid in taxes due to the drop in income and earnings.

Fire In LaVale Destroys Truck And Garage

Three Companies Respond To Alarm

A panel truck, garage, and other equipment, owned by James A. Kuhlman, of Forest Glen, LaVale, were destroyed by fire yesterday evening in a three-alarm blaze.

Volunteer firemen from LaVale, Corriganville and Cresaptown fought the stubborn blaze which threatened the pigeon loft of a next door neighbor, C. A. Smith.

Candy Dealer

Full extent of damages was not estimated last night by Kuhlman. The fire occurred about 7:20 p. m. just about 45 minutes after Kuhlman, a wholesale candy dealer, had put his truck in the garage.

The blaze was discovered by neighbors who reside across the highway Route 40 and LaVale firemen were notified. Shortly afterward, the other two fire companies reported to the scene.

The firemen used water from a hydrant located at the intersection of Forest Glen and the National Highway, as well as their booster pumps. They also trained water on the nearby pigeon loft owned by Smith, which houses approximately 400 birds.

Kuhlman was reported to have gone to the Smith residence to watch a television show just before the fire started. Firemen said that there were no electrical connections in the gutted building and apparently the blaze resulted from a short circuit in the panel truck.

Much Headway

The fire had made considerable headway before firemen arrived and a couple of small explosions, apparently caused by gasoline, were reported. Aside from the loss of the truck, tools and other equipment were destroyed.

Kuhlman told firemen that he also lost a power lawn mower which had been outside all summer and was put in the garage for storage on Sunday.

Cromwell C. Zembower of the LaVale Fire Department said the blaze caused considerable excitement in the area and traffic was tied up for some time.

The blaze occurred about a block west of the substation of the Maryland State Police who aided in directing traffic.

Zembower said the residences of Kuhlman and Smith were approximately 100 feet from the blazing building. The truck according to Kuhlman was covered by insurance.

He is a wholesale dealer and sells candy and other notions in LaVale and the Cumberland area.

Blaze Guts LaVale Garage

Volunteer firemen are shown above probing through the smoking ruins of a garage destroyed in a three alarm blaze yesterday evening on the property of James A. Kuhlman, located at Forest Glen. His panel truck, used in a wholesale business, and other equipment were also destroyed. Three companies, LaVale, Corriganville and Cresaptown, responded to the alarm which was sounded about 7:20 p. m. Firemen kept the blaze from spreading to other nearby buildings. About 400 pigeons also were near.

Democrats List Plans For Active County Drive

Weatherholt Named Committee Secretary

The Democratic State Central Committee of Allegany County completed its organization last night and outlined detailed plans for an active and vigorous campaign between now and November 2.

According to Thomas B. Finan, committee chairman, the State Central Committee, along with a campaign committee will meet regularly at campaign headquarters in the Algonquin Hotel, each Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock, until after the general election.

The committee also tentatively scheduled a series of workers rallies, campaign meetings and tours during the month of October, to be climaxed with a Democratic rally and dinner on October 30. At that time, Dr. H. C. Byrd, the party's standard bearer for governor, and his running mates, along with all local candidates will be guests.

A program of publicity, radio and television talks, and other details were worked out at last night's session. One of the important rallies scheduled will be an invasion of the county's Republican stronghold, Lonaconing. William Kelly, president of the Georges Creek Democrat Club, said plans are well underway for a big rally there on October 13. Workers from all parts of the county, Republicans who are endorsing Dr. Byrd, and Georges Creek Democrats will participate.

An invitation was received from Baltimore for the local committee and party workers to attend a dinner and rally in that city, and plans were considered for a delegation to attend.

Richard Stakem, campaign headquarters manager, reported progress on campaign organization, and said many individuals and groups are rallying to the support of the state and local Democratic candidates.

F. Allan Weatherholt was unanimously elected secretary of the State Central Committee. At the meeting last week, Thomas F. Conlon Jr., was named treasurer.

New Law Provides Farmers Better Program For Loans

Public Law 597, adopted by the 83rd Congress, makes available to farmers a new type of credit for financing soil conservation measures and extends the water facility loan program to the entire nation, according to B. Beeson Snyder, Farmers Home Administration supervisor for Garrett and Allegany counties.

Previously, water facility loans, which are used by farmers to develop irrigation systems and farmstead water supplies, were limited to the 17 Western states. The law also makes it possible for the first time for the Government to insure soil conservation and water facility loans advanced by private lenders.

Much progress has been made in conserving the soil and water resources of the nation. However, on the 400 million acres of cropland, Soil Conservation Service surveys indicate erosion is still proceeding at a serious rate on about 200 million acres, half the total.

Despite temporary surpluses, the demands upon agriculture will grow heavier in the years to come. By 1975 the nation likely will need the production equivalent of an additional 115 million acres of improved cropland to keep pace with the demands of a growing population.

To meet rising demands, U. S. farmers will have to depend mainly upon increasing the per acre yields on crop and pastureland and on range and forest lands.

A well-planned program for resource conservation often comprises practices requiring considerable capital investment or temporary economic sacrifices. Public and private credit geared to the repayment potentials of conservation practices will materially aid many farms. Public Law 597, according to Snyder, will provide a part of the needed capital.

Loan services authorized by Public Law 597 will be made available through the Farmers' Home Administration, a United States Department of Agriculture agency. This organization has more than 1,500 offices serving all agricultural counties. The new program will be launched within a matter of weeks and can be handled with little additional administrative expense.

The existence and availability of FHA county committees also helps assure a well-run program, Snyder says. The committees are composed of local men who have a proven knowledge of local agricultural conditions and are willing to make their services available to benefit their communities.

The soil and water conservation program will not duplicate any existing services. It will supplement but will not be a substitute for private and cooperative credit. Applicants who need engineering services in the development and execution of the improvements carried out with the loans will obtain these services from other agencies or private sources. In addition, loans will be made only for the types of soil and water conservation practices recommended by the Soil Conservation Service, the Extension Service and other agricultural agencies.

County FHA committeemen for Allegany are James H. Morgan, Frostburg; Raymond Slider, Oldtown, and Marshall Porter, Frostburg. In Garrett County they are Lenwood F. Bittinger, Mt. Lake Park; Hubert A. Friend, Friendsville, and Paul W. Welch, Oakland.

Full particulars concerning this new type of credit and the rest of the FHA program may be obtained from a committeeman or from Snyder, Garrett National Bank Building, Oakland. He also is in the office of Allegany County Agent Joseph M. Steger from 2 until 4 p. m. each Monday.

Compensation Law Revisions To Be Discussed

Washington County Senator Urges Step

HAGERSTOWN, Sept. 27 (AP) — A state senator said today vital changes in Maryland's workmen's compensation law will be up for discussion when the Legislative Council meets Oct. 4.

Sen. D. K. McLaughlin (R-Washington County) said letters have gone out requesting the appearance at the meeting of Charles S. Jackson, state insurance commissioner, and Dr. Carl N. Everstein, director of the Department of Legislative Reference.

McLaughlin said the Council is studying a bill to provide substantial changes in the compensation law.

Proposed, he said, is the elimination of private insurance firms from the compensation program and the creation of state compensation fund.

McLaughlin said the aim is to reduce premiums and increase benefits.

The Washington County senator, a member of the Council's judiciary committee, said: "The Council is presently studying a bill to provide for substantial changes in our compensation law as well as the creation of a state compensation fund to take care of all such losses. The idea of such a fund is that the saving in premiums can result in payment of increased benefits to claimants."

McLaughlin called for a thorough study of the rates employers have to pay. They went up 4.4 percent Sept. 1st.

Democrat Chief Says Party Will Win House Seats

Mitchell Predicts Md. Gain Of Three

BALTIMORE, Sept. 27 (AP)—National Democratic Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell forecast today his party would recapture "at least three" Maryland seats in Congress next November.

Making a long-delayed visit here for a luncheon attended by leaders of virtually every element of the Maryland Democratic party, Mitchell spoke of a "Democratic tide running through this country."

Nearly 100 party leaders from Baltimore and surrounding counties—representing labor and business, professional politicians and women auxiliaries, Negro and white—came to hear Mitchell at a luncheon called by H. C. Byrd, Democratic candidate for governor. Backers of George P. Mahoney, Byrd's opponent in the bitter primary, were there in force.

Pointing to the recent Democratic victory in the Maine gubernatorial election, Mitchell said here was proof the party could regain majorities in the House and Senate if its candidates "talk the issues and the facts."

"They didn't back away from anything," he said of the Maine Democratic candidates.

"The significance of that election was not only that (Edmund S.) Muskie became governor," said Mitchell. "The significance of that election was that even the popular Republican incumbents who did win re-election lost 12-13 percent of their previous vote."

After the luncheon spokesmen at Byrd headquarters indicated Muskie might be a guest at $100-a-plate dinner and rally Oct. 18 in Baltimore.

Mitchell said the Democratic party in Maryland had "hit bottom" in the last two elections, when the Republicans won four of seven Congressional seats, both Senate seats and the governorship.

"But it's on its way up now," he declared.

The national party chairman hit hard on what has become a favorite theme of the Democrats in this campaign: That the working man has suffered economically under the Republicans and Democrats should have little trouble convincing him they are his best friends.

In an interview later Mitchell mentioned "broiler prices" as one of the factors believed responsible for the Republican loss in Maine.

Supporters of State Sen. Edward Turner, seeking to oust Republican Rep. Edward T. Miller in the Eastern Shore's First Congressional District, took heart from this. The Shore's big broiler growing industry has suffered heavily in recent months.

Besides Turner, other congressional candidates at the luncheon included Reps. Samuel N. Friedel, George H. Fallon, and Edward A. Garmatz, seeking re-election from their all-Baltimore districts; and Del. Richard E. Lankford, Fifth District and former Rep. William P. Bolton, of the Second District. Edward J. Ryan, campaigning for the Sixth District seat, was absent.

B&O Income Continues Downward

Earnings Half Of Last Year

The net income of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, for the month of August, is reflected in its regular report, as $1,231,030. Operating revenue for the period was $32,792,575.

The August income brings the accumulated net income of the company to $9,616,020, for the first eight months of this year.

Railroad operating revenues, as well as net income, continue to run well below the levels of 1953. August net income is down $1,516,112, compared with August last year. The accumulated net is $8, 906,069 below the first eight months of 1953. Actually, the railroad, in August, earned less than half as much as it did in August a year ago, and for all of 1954, has been earning only about 55 per cent as much as in 1953.

Operating revenues are off $59,-281,132 for the period from January 1 to August 31. Operating revenues for the period total $253,030,-859.

Operating expenses are shown at $206,910,644 for eight months compared to $245,605,276 for the same period of 1953. The decrease in operation costs amounts to $38,-694,632, and is made possible by continued furloughs and other curtailments.

The railroad has paid $7,294,213 in income and other taxes for this eight months period, compared to $17,575,897 for the same period in 1953. This is a decrease of over ten million dollars paid in taxes due to the drop in income and earnings.

He said over 200 firms are being contacted by Classified Division workers in the Red Feather drive which William R. Carscaden pointed out "reduces the number of separate appeals, effecting a tremendous saving in campaign costs and manpower hours."

City To Change Walk Lights In Business Area

Third Phase To Be For Pedestrians

Pedestrians will be allowed to scramble across intersections on Baltimore Street from any angle when the Police Department changes its traffic lights this week.

The plan, announced yesterday by Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan, will allow pedestrians to walk on each third phase of the traffic light change, with all vehicular traffic stopped.

The present system of moving pedestrian traffic on green lights with the flow of vehicles was instituted here about 15 months ago to replace a system under which pedestrians were allowed to cross after each traffic change.

The new plan has been popularized as the "Barnes Dance," since its was advocated by the traffic expert who for months has been working to solve Baltimore's traffic problems.

Cities Adopt Plan

A number of larger cities are adopting the undignified but efficient scramble system on their busy intersections.

In a statement before the Mayor and Council, Keegan said the new system will allow pedestrians to walk on every third phase of the traffic light.

When the walk light is on, all other lights will be red and pedestrians will be allowed to cross from any angle, Keegan stated.

"As it is now," the commissioner continued, "and aside from the dangerous angle, the pedestrian walking with traffic slows it up rather than moving it quickly."

Keegan added that, in addition to speeding up traffic, the new pedestrian walk regulations will add greatly to safety.

Police Get Complaints

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn pointed out that the new walk light system will be carried out on a 15-second basis.

According to Flynn, the present "Walk" and "Don't Walk" neon lights will continue to function.

Flynn said the present system for pedestrians has resulted in a number of complaints to police officials.

"On one occasion," he added, "I saw two women struck by cars at an intersection."

Chief Flynn said the system in effect slows traffic because pedestrians straggle across the street, taking "their good old time and further delaying vehicular movement."
